An extraterrestrial contact narration in the form of a novel from the year 1971.

Title : Cosmic giants (3)

Contactee : Medialer Friedenskreis Berlin (Psychic Peace Circle, Berlin)
 Mediums : Uwe Speer and Monika-Manuela Speer
 SANTINER : ASHTAR SHERAN, SHINUN, NAMO, SO SHIIN, MUMTASEE, O SHUR, O SHITA, O SEMIO.

The following novel was written by the MFK (Medialer Friedenskreis), Berlin, based on the many individual contacts with interplanetary visitors. All descriptions and almost all dialogues were assembled from séances and interviews with the SANTINER. The report about extraterrestrial spaceships is authentic, because it originates from the SANTINER themselves. The form this novel was to take was decided by the MFK, Berlin. We are mainly dealing with fully-automatic written messages, unconsciously received by two mediums well tested over time. The work of the two mediums began when they were 15 and respectively 17 years old. The total published production of the MFK-Berlin (Medialer Friedenskreis Berlin), the Menetekel and the ASHTAR SHERAN brochures are considered the absolute pinnacle of psycho-scientific research. Other spiritual circles have often tried to copy the work of the MFK, but its quality was never achieved. The reproduction and distribution of these messages and protocols is explicitly encouraged and is not covered by any copyright!

Preface by the publisher

At a time when all kinds of pseudo-religious and decadent orientations seize people's imagination like an avalanche, many people have lost their orientation; they look for the meaning of life and cannot find a satisfactory answer; they allow themselves to be dragged along by the maelstrom cause by their fellow men and are unaware of the forces at work in the background. A fear of the future has become a daily companion for many people.

On the threshold of the age of space exploration on the other hand, new consciousness perspectives open up for us that make us ask the question: Are there also other human races out there in space who might have developed a space flight technology well ahead of ours and maybe even based on metaphysical legalities still unknown to us? This question can be answered with a confident yes.

These three brochures, penned in the form of novels, were generated from the memorandums of extraterrestrial messages of unique importance received by the Psychic Peace Circle, Berlin. These messages are directed at all of mankind and are penned with forceful clarity and up to date preciseness. The time to understand such an extraordinary series of elucidations is ripe. May it bring a new spiritual orientation to all those that have the courage to take a liberating step towards a universal consciousness.

Bad Salzuflen, January 2002

1. Preface (by Herbert Viktor Speer, Leader of the MFK-Berlin)

The phenomenon of unidentified flying objects (UFOS) is not a sign of the times that is connected to the general fears prevalent amongst the population on Earth, but a UNIVERSAL EVENT that reaches back thousands of years.

The story as it unfolded so far:

Journalist Martin Berger is abducted by a disk shaped flying object and brought to an extraterrestrial mother-ship. Berger is asked to participate, as the representative of the terrestrial human race, at an INTERSTELLAR CONFERENCE that specifically deals with the strained conditions on Earth.

The extraterrestrial mother-ship with its length of 600m, median height of around 100m and 18 levels high astonished Martin. Something he also found incredible was the fact that this giant ship can travel at more than twice the speed of light. To achieve this, the propulsion system is switched over to utilise the enormous magnetic forces of anti-matter. Its own force field surrounds the ship like the armour around a tank and protects it from any external dangers.

The commander of the mother-ship, ASHTAR SHERAN, is a charismatic WORLD TEACHER, endowed with comprehensive knowledge about CREATION and about the universe. His liaisons officer, SHINUN, is in charge of the personal care of the terrestrial guest on board. An extremely intelligent, extraterrestrial young lady by the name of NAMO, who is affectionately called a living lexicon, is instructing Martin Berger and he profits a lot from the enormous knowledge of this lady. If anything, the whole crew of the mother-ship behaved in a very friendly manner and showed him great hospitality.

Martin is taught such a lot of new things on board the mother-ship that his astonishment never ceases...

During a lengthy conversation with the extraterrestrial WORLD TEACHER and commander of the spaceship ASHTAR SHERAN, the journalist soon discovered that he had to change his existing views about GOD and the world and that he had to look at the whole situation from a completely different perspective. Berger gradually realised that man's clear, god-given insights have been clouded by the sciences, particularly by many psychologists, philosophers and theologians. Such an erroneous programming of the human consciousness, and this from an early age on, must inevitably lead to a situation where adult human beings came up with wrong conclusions that were then regarded as "great logic".

PEACE ACROSS ALL FRONTIERS!

Herbert Viktor Speer

Leader of the MFK, Berlin

2. Unreliable witnesses

“One can apparently not rely on the historians of the past”, said Martin who gradually began to comprehend the events that took place 2,000 years ago. “The witnesses at that time did indeed describe instances and events, but they did so without actually being able to comprehend them. Having to continue to give such false interpretations credence in our technological age is indeed an affront.”

“That’s the way it is”, answered the WORLD TEACHER. “In regards to my forefathers, terrestrial historians and witnesses of events you call ‘prophets’ were confronted by a technology that surpassed theirs by more than 5,000 years. These witnesses found this impossible to comprehend. The only explanation left to describe the incomprehensible was that of ‘divine miracle’. This is why we were looked upon as ‘Angels’, ‘Gods’ and great ‘magicians’. – Let’s imagine a scribe from the year 3,000 BC standing at one of today’s international airports. He can see with his own eyes how a large jetliner lands and takes off. My dear friend, what do you believe this scribe would have written about his experience? – Well, I can pretty much tell you precisely what he would have written down:

‘The Lord led me to an immense area where gigantic birds were standing. Their plumage glistened like silver and gold. One of these gigantic birds suddenly descended from the heavens. It made a terrible noise, as if thousands of bulls had become wild. He then stretched out his formidable claws, ran across the ground and anchored his claws in the ground. – I suddenly realised that the belly of the bird had opened up and at least 150 people it had devoured emerged. The body of the bird, standing on mighty legs, was so high above the ground that one had to push a gigantic ladder under it, so that all these people could climb down.

Once the people had left the Lord’s gigantic bird, the bird was given a whole well’s supply of water to drink. This bird had large shimmering eye and a divine light shone through them every now and then. I testify that I have seen this with my own eyes. There are no birds of that size in our world. It must have been a bird of the Lord.’

“You might be right about this after all”, Martin said contemplatively.

“And now the controversy in regards to us”, the extraterrestrial continued. “What evolution is concerned, we are also advanced of the terrestrial human race and this by many thousands of years. The present humanity on Earth is also confronted with a technology it is not quite mature enough to comprehend. Our technology must seem incomprehensible and incredible, because the scientists on Terra lag way behind our experiences and insights.

I am aware of Jules Verne¹, a French writer who described a trip to the Moon years and years ago. This man was thought of as one the greatest visionaries one could then imagine. His 'vision' is nowadays only regarded a primitive attempt to imagine the future. – Well, terrestrial science is now confronted with our space technology. But because this type of astronautics is not yet taught at universities, one regards this technology – and therefore us also – a fantastic utopia.”

¹ Jules Verne, born in Nates on the 8-2-1828, died in Amiens on the 24-3-1905, a French author. His adventure and futuristic novels, wherein he often anticipated technical inventions, were the precursors of science fiction. Works: Journey to the Centre of the Earth (1864), From the Earth to the Moon (1865), 20,000 Leagues under the Sea (1870) and Around the world in 80 Days (1873).

“I won’t be able to make a lot of changes to this opinion”, Martin asked them to bear in mind.

“Don’t say that”, answered the commander. “If you want to help us, you will have to try to publicise our get-together. Just how you manage this is your affair. I imagine that you will be able to encourage many people, politicians and scientists also, to have a look at what’s written in the bible. With the help of sightings and reports of extraterrestrial contacts, these people can draw their own comparisons. This will introduce a lot of people to the TRUTH. This would be a preparatory effort. It will then be possible for us to later meet terrestrial astronauts in space.

“An interesting suggestion, but I am still convinced that one will think that my adventure is pure science fiction”, Martin replied.

“This has to be tried first”, reckoned the WORLD TEACHER. “We endeavour to give you object-lessons. Nobody can take away the things one experienced and got to know. Firsthand knowledge cannot be replaced by anything! Firsthand knowledge transmutes faith into knowledge and it strengthens one’s own inner basis.”

“Yes, I also think so”, Martin said meditatively. “I have a question I’m very interested in: When looking for something HIGHER, ancient cultures on Earth have hallowed the Sun. The Incas² and the Mayans³ also revered a Sun God. How does one explain the fact that these peoples awarded a heavenly body so much personality?”

“ASHTAR SHERAN turned to SHINUN and said: “This is actually something for you. Please explain it to our guest,” – “Gladly”, said SHINUN. “As I suspect Mister Berger, you already sense that we might have something to do with this and you are correct. When one looks at such a large discus from underneath and this in a way that one can see the whole underside, it can happen that such a discus seems like a shinning sun. I deliberately call this flying object ‘discus’ in your language so that you know what I am talking about.

³ Maya culture: Maya culture in North Guatemala (Petén) and the Yucatan Peninsula as well as parts of Tabasco, Chiapas and Honduras from 1500 AD to 1540 AD; the most advanced of all Pre-Columbian cultures; economy based on irrigation and burn and slash cultivation, corn amongst other things. The whole area was already divided into a number of city and territorial states in the pre-classical time from 1500 BC to 300 AD, ruled by hereditary princes. Extended cities signified the centres. Their often acropolis-like centres were filled with temples and palaces made from stone, erected on layered pyramids and platforms. The temples probably served to honour the ancestors of the ruling class., dominated by the religion of the classical period. The post-classical period lasted from 99AD to 1540AD. Only partial empires remained at the end and the last on of them was conquered by the Spaniards in 1697. The Maya possessed the only Indian written language that had developed beyond the Rebus stadium. There are only a few firm decipherments, amongst other things there are numbers, mathematical and astronomical units, names of rulers, cities and gods as well as pictograms of political and historical events. The mathematics the Maya applied used an anchoring system based on the number 20 as well as the number 0. The Maya’s accomplishments in regards to astronomy were paramount.

We call this spaceship 'URDA'. This appellation doesn't mean anything to you, it is not applied on Earth and it is therefore unimportant.

The Mayans saw the underside of our discuses quite often. They believed that the sun had come down to Earth. This isn't as illogical as it may sound, because the real sun traces its path from East to West and it apparently doesn't stand still. It appeared however that this wasn't always the case, because the 'sun' sometimes traced a different path across the sky. The Mayans observed that such a 'sun' was once very close to the ground and that a beautiful, well dressed human being alighted from the 'sun' to walk on Terra. This human being wore a shining helmet on its head and its uniform was also very impressive. This is the reason why the Mayans called these strange human beings that came from high up in the sky 'Sons of God'. The whole sun culture developed from such a factual event. Because the sun is very powerful: It can scorch everything or also make things grow."

3. The Gods of this Earth

"Can you explain the strange figures and drawings on Easter Island to me?" Martin asked the commander. "We are dealing with pretty primitive sculptures hewn from the volcanic rock of the island. Because of their heavy weight one is intrigued."

"We are dealing with pretty solid rock here", answered ASHTAR SHERAN. "These figures were hewn from rocks that had been broken up by our fly-overs. The anti-gravitational force of the spaceships repolarised these rocks to nearly the limits of levitation."

"The observer finds that the bearing and expression of these figures seemed to be that of pride", Martin said.

"This may be the case", the commander replied. "I assume that one wanted to express the regal bearing of our astronauts. It was certainly a reverence shown to confabulated Gods. These figures were however also part of their death cult."

"How can one explain the fact that these rocks now possess their normal solidness and weight?" the terrestrial journalist wanted to know.

"Well, the Earth's magnetic field gradually repolarised these rocks since their construction", the commander replied.

"This explains a number of things", said Martin. "One also discovered drawings of people with wings. Can you tell me something about this?"

"Certainly, our astronauts can wear wing-like equipment that makes it easier to levitate", answered the commander.

Martin remembered a passage in the bible from Ezekiel: It states that the Cherubim possessed wings that covered human hands. – "Is there a reason why they specifically flew over Easter Island in those days?" Martin inquired further.

“These islands are particularly well suited for our flying discusses to land on. There were only a small number of people there and they had virtually no contact with other people”, answered the commander.

Martin was satisfied. He could not have received better instructions anywhere. He learned the TRUTH here from a very reliable source. He was less and less able to comprehend why one would describe these extraterrestrial friends as enemies or ridicule them as “little green men”. They were in reality actually sons of the sun or the heavens and it wasn’t all that far fetched to call them “Gods”. In any case, it was reassuring to know that these interesting “Gods” had come back to visit planet Earth.

Martin remembered to have read that there was a stone somewhere on Earth that, according to geologists, was supposed to have had a different polarity in the past. According to a scientific theory, the rotation of the Earth was supposed to have changed in the past. Martin now realised that the repolarisation of these stones must have come about through the influence of extraterrestrial spaceships.

“You would have realised by now”, said ASHTAR SHERAN, “that there is neither day nor night here on this spaceship. We calculate time differently from the way you do on Terra. We have zests, that is to say, time segments. I think we have done enough during this zest. I am sure we will talk with one another real soon. Please turn to SHINUN, if you should have any personal wishes. He will always be there for you. I would like to think that you feel comfortable here with us.”

“Commander, it has been an honour for me to be able to talk to you so informally”, Martin ventured as he got up. ASHTAR SHERAN dismissed this idea and said:

“Don’t make a fuss about it. I would prefer it if you would not look upon me as the ‘commander’, but as a brother from the stars. I am not in charge of a battle fleet and I don’t hold with titles and accolades. One places much too much emphasis on such titles of office on Terra. Academics unfortunately regard themselves as a special breed of people. We don’t apply anything like this here! Knowledge and education are wonderful and valuable. But who knows for instance Mister Berger, whether you possess abilities and potentials that I don’t possess, but that are of vital importance in regards to the advancement of everybody. – One should never overestimate anybody, but one should also not underestimate anybody either. It is everybody’s duty to help those near one, one’s brother or sister. Nobody should have the arrogance to reject such help or to blaspheme about it.

- Brotherly love isn’t just about giving presents; it is more about listening and maybe providing some good advice.

What advantage provides an eminent title, if one does not have any empathy for another person? Maybe we make the mistake of showing much too much empathy for the people on Earth.

We actually avoid everything that might retard progress. This is why we fail to understand why you engage in wars on Terra. Do you find it good and proper Mister Berger when somebody destroys your home and country so that you have to rebuild it with sweat on your brow during your next life on Earth? – One might take the future of one's children into consideration, but one never entertains the idea that it is also one's own future. The interval between lives in the invisible REGIONS is only a test phase. –Think about this once in a while."

4. Fishermen and fish

After Martin had said good-bye, SHINUN led him away. It was now time for the main meal. Martin already got used to the space-diet on board, but to his amazement discovered over again that there were no hot meals available. Everything was served lukewarm. The portions seemed accurately calculated, not too much, but actually rather not enough.

Martin turned to SHINUN and said: "The conversation with the commander impressed me very much. But I do ask myself who should expunge all the terrible mistakes that are made on Earth. Just how obstinately and fanatically one holds on to these mistakes is difficult to comprehend."

"I can give you another example of this", answered SHINUN. "It states in the bible one so vehemently defends, that the fishermen tossed the prophet Jonas out of their boat to punish him. The Lord however provided a large fish to swallow Jonas. Jonas spent three day and three nights in the belly of this fish, he was then returned to shore. – This garbled and falsely defined passage from the bible lost the American presidential candidate Jennings Bryan his extraordinary bible lawsuit. No scientist, zoologist and also no sane person will take such a fairytale serious. One therefore recognised that this was a lie.

But what did the reality look like? A great whirlwind develops when one of our large spaceships lands. The fishermen experienced such a whirlwind. When they threw Jonas overboard in order to appease the boiling sea, a spaceship hovering over the water approached the drowning Jonas and took him on board. The fishermen didn't know how to describe this spaceship. Because of its shape, they likened it to a whale. No terrestrial flying objects existed in those days. – As you can see my friend, a lot of things find their correct explanation.

You have surely heard about Peter's haul of fish? You do however not know the coherences here either: Even though the fishermen had worked through the night, the result of their catch was more than meagre. A discus suddenly flew low over the ocean. CHRIST saw this flying object. He knew the effect of flying discusses on the fish in the water and he demanded that the fishermen cast their nets at a specific spot. The magnetism of the UFO managed to draw the fish in its wake to the surface so that they could easily be caught in their nets. Not a divine miracle, but rather a natural process. Correctly observed, well reported, but completely absurdly interpreted and wrongly comprehended in any case," said SHINUN. "Has an experiment to measure the speed of thoughts ever been undertaken on Earth?"

"One has undertaken telepathic experiments across thousands of miles. But the speed of thought never got a mention", answered Martin. "If one was aware on Earth that the speed of light was not the absolute limit, things might be different."

"We measured the speed of thoughts across a distance of two light years", ventured SHINUN.

“And what was the result?” Martin asked expectantly.

“Twofold really”, the extraterrestrial answered.

- “We discovered to our amazement that thoughts actually amplified across such distances! They were easily received at the other end. The time these thoughts required to bridge the distance of two light years was so little that we were only dealing with a couple of seconds.”

“Do you have an explanation for this?” Martin asked.

“We do not have an explanation so far, at the most a theory. We assume that thoughts interact with space as a whole. Thoughts therefore do not have to travel.”

Is it correct that you use helmets equipped with telepathy enhancers?” Martin asked.

“Yes, that’s correct. The telepathy enhancer is located in the bulge of the helmet and it looks like a small saucer. The enhancer contains a crystal one can find on the moon Ganymedes. A process not covered by time. This apparatus however is only designed to send thoughts and not to receive them”, explained SHINUN.

“Just like any other human being, without technical amplification”, SHINUN answered.

“Our scientists assume that our consciousness is anchored within the cells of the brain”, said Martin. “Is this correct?”

“This is absolute nonsense! This assumption makes scientists overlook a lot of insights that are extremely important for man”, answered the extraterrestrial.

“I would like to hear more about it”, the terrestrial journalist ventured.

“Very good, I will introduce you to our brain specialist” said SHINUN. “This brother from the stars not only speaks German very well, but also English. There will be no problems with communicating here.”

SHINUN led Martin to an elevator that looked more like a floating platform and it quickly transported them to the desired level. Martin noticed that every level had a different colour scheme. This allowed one to instantly recognise just where one was located.

5. Cerebral research

The unfamiliar SANTINER introduced himself as O SHITA. Martin thought that this somewhat strange name somehow sounded quite Japanese. After SHINUN had finished his explanation about what this was all about, O SHITA invited them to sit down. The extraterrestrial then began the conversation in an almost accent free German:

“I am aware of the prevalent view held on Terra. Scientific mistakes are just as dangerous as theological mistakes. Man is guided in the wrong direction either way. I ask your forgiveness if I should express myself incorrectly Mister Berger. Please ask your questions!”

“Are thoughts produced within the brain?” was Martin’s first question.

“The brain of a human being is very complicated”, answered O SHITA. “One may not allow oneself to be duped. The same thing can happen as has happened in the past, when one thought that the sun orbited around the Earth. The primary function of the brain is that of acting as a relay for the physical body, that is to say, it is an organ that allows the soul to initiate relatively high performances with the least amount of control. One could also call the brain the link between the ethereal spirit and the physical body. The secondary function of the brain is that of acting as a relay to convert all impressions and perceptions on behalf of the soul. This means:

- Everything that is either mentally or spiritually active within man is not situated within the brain, but within the cosmos, respectively in the universe as one likes to call it.”

“But one assumes that the brain records all one’s memories”, Martin said.

“How can one be so simple minded and ascribe physical matter such enormous, well, untold capabilities?” answered O SHITA. If this was so, man’s brain would have to be larger than your terrestrial MOON.

- There are lots of people who remember things they have never heard of before! These fragment stem from man’s pre-existence, that is to say, from man’s many past lives.

From which material brain are such engrams supposed to stem from? – And in addition to this there is also fantasy. Fantasy is a miracle in itself. Where do man’s archetype dreams and archetype memory come from? – No, it’s not that simple, one cannot assume that man’s little brain mass is capable of all of this!

- If you were to ask me how large man’s consciousness and memory storage capacity is, I would have to say: As large as the universe. It is a function that shows a great similarity to GOD’S THOUGHT PROCESSES.

Let’s assume that man’s brain is a fish; the ocean around it would then be the space man required to think. This ocean contains all memories and it is the fish’s function to manipulate and to seek out information.”

“One has sliced the brain into sheer slices and placed them under a microscope. The brains windings one was able to see through this process apparently have a great similarity to printed circuitry of terrestrial electronics. This is why one made these technological comparisons”, Martin said to O SHITA.

“This is wrong! If one has to draw a comparison one should maybe use that of a television set: Telecasts are produced away from the television set, but are received inside the set. Ergo, a deception! – The brain does not give any information about size and functionality. The conscious process is a COSMIC PROCESS. Man can also think without a brain. This has already been verified on Terra”, answered O SHITA.

Can you explain to me just how this is supposed to operate?” asked Martin.

“Why certainly”, said the extraterrestrial, “it is however a complicated process”.

- Terrestrial science makes the great mistake of wanting to explain everything according to the laws of physics. The spirit however rates higher than the physical and it is the more important part of CREATION.

One has to remember this a priori!

A materialist is a person that only relies on his physical sense organs and whose thoughts do not feature any other experiences but the ones his physical senses can provide him with. In a nutshell: He is intellectually poor.

The conceptual thought process is the simplest. The linguistic thought process is more complicated and therefore also more strenuous. Concepts create feelings. Aside from physical feelings there are also mental feelings like heartache, yearning, homesickness, happiness or sadness. Physical feelings can be in the form of pain, hunger and thirst.

- A mental feeling can develop without a physical condition from without the nervous system. We experience here the extraordinary phenomenon where a feeling of great intenseness arises within the consciousness that has nothing to do with the physical body. On the contrary – the body starts to depend on this feeling and begins to involve itself with this feeling with physical complaints.

Joy and happiness can also develop without physical coherences and they can have a secondary effect on the body. There are physical and mental feelings. All of these sensations are interrelated with one another.”

“How does the thought process develop in the first place?” Martin asked.

“One’s thoughts are the result of listening to one’s own inner language”, explained O SHITA. “I am talking about linguistic thoughts. If this activity was supposed to be a process of the brain, stones would have to be able to hear it also. Hearing a foreign, unknown language is a form of inspiration.

- If one’s consciousness was located within the brain, there would be no telepathy whatsoever, because the receiver doesn’t extricate the telepathic text from his brain cells, but from the cosmos.

“If it was the way one imagines this process on Terra, we could not travel through space across these enormous distances; because telepathy provides us with a very important prerequisite to do so.

- The greatest inherent miracle within man is man's individual FREQUENCY through which man can be reached on a mental level. Every human being possesses his or her own consciousness. Every feeling, every perception and thought impulse is recorded in space.

Space is the large ledger where man can look things up over again. There is nothing to look up in the brain. Looking things up is like finding one's BEARING, but as thought is the fastest thing we know, looking things up happens extremely fast. Every individual human being sorts his own memories. If they are poorly arranged, they are hard to find. Such a person is mentally idle. The better a human being arranges things, the more efficient are his thought processes."

"What happens to a cache of memories when a person dies?" Martin asked rapt in attention.

"Absolutely nothing", answered O SHITA. "Everything remains where it is."

"And when a person has died and no longer has a brain at its disposal?" Martin asked.

"The physical brain is superfluous once it no longer has a body to take care of", said O SHITA.

- The soul thinks and not the brain!
- A dead person can be compared to an amputee who has lost all his limbs, His physical body is useless, but all his other functions remain.⁴

We have a technical aide that makes it easier for us to exit with our astral body. Our spirit leaves its ethereal, physical body and goes wandering about or visits a terrestrial psychic working circle in order to communicate with the circle's medium. It eventually returns to its physical body."⁵

Martin only shook his head, but didn't say anything.

O SHITA smiled wisely when he said: "As you can see Mister Berger, one can also think without a brain. Only when the spirit can no longer return to its physical body and the supply of the necessary VITALITY has been cut off will the physical body die."

"You say this as if it was the simplest of things", objected Martin.

"And so it is!" said O SHITA. "Dying and death are very simple processes and they hold no fear for us whatsoever. One only has to be correctly informed about it. What is important is a clear conscience!"

"What are the reasons why one has not yet discovered this on Earth?" Martin asked.

⁴ One is aware of the phenomenon of phantom pains whereby amputees still feel their amputated limbs.

⁵ A drug induced trip verifies the same; it's just that this method is extremely dangerous and more painful.

Because there are political despots that make sure that this sort of insight do not reach the public”, answered O SHITA. “”Every responsible statesman acts and thinks according to the insights received from the sciences. If the sciences therefore assert that consciousness is tied to physical matter, the statesman finds this authoritative and agreeable. It is not up to him to examine whether this assertion is correct. The result is devastating. What could these despots possibly do if they are no longer in a position to threaten people with a terrible death? Once death has lost its horror, the power of the leader dissipates. They are therefore not interested.”

SHINUN entered the conversation and said:

“If you want to study this in more detail, Mister Berger, you will have to remain our guest here for a few more months. But I am afraid that you will then no longer want to return to Terra.”

“I already feel like that now”, answered Martin Berger. “The Earth is a strange planet. The people there think that they have made enormous progress, but the reality looks entirely different.”

SHINUN beckoned to Martin. They got up from their seats and took their leave from O SHITA. Particularly Martin thanked him for all this interesting information. Once outside the door, SHINUN said:

“In about one hour of your Earth time another conference will take place. Have a rest for the remainder of the time. I will come and fetch you.”

6. What is TRUTH?

Martin returned to the lounge he was familiar with. He sat in a cosy corner and chased his thoughts. How far from Earth might he be right now? – The mother-ship flew absolutely silently, only a very slight vibration could be felt.

MUMTASEE, the dancer, suddenly entered the room. She looked around and saw Martin sitting at the table. She greeted him cordially and Martin offered her a seat at his table. MUMTASEE thanked him and sat down. Martin finally had an opportunity to look at her more closely. This extraterrestrial definitely embodied the human race, but she was from a terrestrial point of view, extremely beautiful.

“Please excuse my terrible German”, she ventured, “but my English isn’t all that good either. But out of courtesy to a guest, I am obliged to converse with you in your own language.”

“Don’t worry about it”, answered Martin. “The main thing is that we understand one another. Two people can meet that do not speak each other’s language, but they are still able to understand each other very well.”

“That’s correct”, said MUMTASEE. “The same thing happens with the SANTINER. But telepathy does play a major role there, because telepathy turns every receiver into their own interpreter. The same thing also applies when one is dead and when one lives a different FORM of EXISTENCE.

- Telepathy is very important. It is man's ORIGINAL LANGUAGE. A LANGUAGE everybody understands.

We had telepathic contact with people from Earth every now and then. Communication actually worked quite well at times, but there were unfortunately only a few occasions. When it comes to telepathy, the people on Earth are still very much untrained. Mankind actually knows far too little about spiritual things. As a result of this ignorance important opportunities are lost in regards to their existence. We regret this very much."

"What opportunities are you talking about?" asked Martin. MUMTASEE couldn't find the right words straight away. She eventually said:

"I mean the cooperation between two worlds. You might not understand me at all. How shall I put it? – I mean the communication between disembodied souls and incarnated people. One is not interested at all in such possibilities on Terra. Everything to do with it is regarded superstition or a lot of nonsense, well even fraud."

"You are touching on a subject here that I am not familiar with at all", Martin admitted somewhat subdued.

"I thought that this might be the case", the extraterrestrial replied. "How could it be otherwise? This is in point of fact the difference in our respective development. We SANTINER, have other, far wider reaching experiences."

"All I can say is that we call this subject 'occult', Martin said to MUMTASEE. It took quite a while before the extraterrestrial answered. She then asked:

"When you talk about 'occult', do you mean that you are dealing with unexplored phenomena?"

"That's exactly what I mean", said Martin. What we on Earth understand 'occultism' to be is not the unexplored or things veiled in darkness, but impossible, assumed nonsense. The extraterrestrial was taken aback and said:

"How can one be so superficial? – This is difficult to comprehend!"

Martin gave her a surprised look, made a dismissive gesture and said: "This is a sensitive subject."

"What do you mean by 'sensitive'", the extraterrestrial asked?

"A subject that is laughed at and ridiculed a lot without actually knowing whether there is some truth in it", said Martin.

"I see", answered MUMTASEE. "But I can't understand why one would avoid this theme and why one would not be interested in it, even though it is of enormous importance. We have been observing Terra for thousands of years and we also checked out other planets. One of the reasons why we do this is because it enables us to measure our own level of development.

You can believe me Mister Berger, when I say that we are extremely well informed about the things that are taking place on Terra. We spend a lot of time thinking about it. We have found amongst other things that authoritative politicians on Earth, responsible for the wellbeing of nations, completely fail in their duty. These politicians are misinformed from two sides, but they still rigidly abide by this information. They are victims of falsely interpreted religions on the one hand and victims of scientific and philosophical influences on the other hand. These people are without faith, even though they belong to one confession or another. They are far removed from the TRUTH and they only believe the things human thought processes have come up with. There is the same kind of fanaticism in atheism as in religion. Both of them are untrue and subjective, because fanaticism does not acknowledge the TRUTH, all it can do is deny and combat it."

"What is TRUTH?" Martin asked expectantly. The extraterrestrial bend forward and with great decisiveness and conviction in her voice said:

- The TRUTH is that a GREAT PLANNER exists.
- The TRUTH is that man is immortal and that a carnal instrument, namely a physical body, sometimes serves his personal development."

SHINUN entered the room and joined them at their table. The extraterrestrial looked quite downcast and said:

"The conference has been cancelled. One had to reschedule it. One of our pilots has passed away. We have a sad situation."

SHINUN turned to MUMTASEE and said:

"It is SETULA. He received a deadly, energy charge. We tried everything we could to save him, but his body was too severely damaged."

"I am sorry to hear this", said Martin, even though he had not known SETULA. SHINUN looked at Martin and said

"It was not an electric charge, but a powerful gravitational impulse. Such impulses can turn very dangerous when they are concentrated. This is why there is a passage in the terrestrial bible in Exodus that states: 'Make a fence for the people and say to them: Do not go up the mountain and do not touch it, because those that will climb the mountain will die.' Gravitational energy is more powerful than electric energy, apart from lightning that is. This man was a member of a flying discus crew. The discus is in our spaceship. The whole thing was a purely technical problem."

"Does this happen quite often?" Martin asked surprised.

"Generally speaking very rarely", answered SHINUN. "Over the last few millennia we have lost spaceships due to technical failure, there was even a mother-ship amongst them. This spaceship might still travel through space as we speak. One was no longer able to steer it and to locate it was also no longer possible. The crew ended up in the spiritual realm long ago and the spaceship itself will one day be attracted by a star and burn up in the process or it will destroy itself."

"Have such spaceship also met with accidents near planet Earth?" Martin asked.

"Yes, this has happened", replied SHINUN. "But when such a spaceship gets into a dangerous situation close to a planet and is no longer recoverable, it will destroy itself in such a case."

"What if we were dealing with this mother-ship?" asked Martin.

"If it was beyond rescuing, that is to say, when no help can be expected, this spaceship will also automatically destroy itself with everything on board." SHINUN replied. "We are aware of one case where a mother-ship was detonated because it flew completely out of control over an area in Northern Russia. (Taiga) If it had not been detonated over an unpopulated area, it could have utterly destroyed a small city. The explosion of such a ship is devastating and it destroys everything where it falls."

"What happens to the casualties?" Martin asked.

"Through the application of special rays that abrogate the atomic bonding force of matter, the physical bodies were dissolved into atoms. The physical bodies were dematerialised."

"And nothing remains behind, not even a recollection?" Martin wanted to know.

"No nothing, no grave, no urn, nothing like that! You don't have to look surprised Mister Berger, it doesn't really matter, because the departed will soon make contact again", said SHINUN.

Martin listened attentively and said: "Why will he make contact?" With an unshakable certainty in his voice SHINUN answered:

"He will certainly make contact and this very soon. We can contact him any time, even if he is in a disembodied state. One can do the same on Terra also."

Martin shook his head and answered somewhat annoyed: "There are people who profess to be able to do so, but this is pure nonsense! Why do you say that one can do this on Terra also? Are you pulling my leg?"

"No, no, nothing like that", said SHINUN. "This case is far too serious to make fun of. Every human being is a thought instrument. We call it a 'thought bearer'. This instrument cannot be compared with the physical body. If it is correctly understood, we can make contact with the thought bearer."

"It will be difficult to make this plausible on Earth", said Martin who had become convinced in the mean time that one was telling him the TRUTH. SHINUN smiled and spoke:

“Your holy scriptures mention: ‘What GOD put together, let no man put a thunder’. This is absolutely correct. This was announced by us like that, but one was unfortunately unwilling to understand this simple sentence.

- GOD does not bind two people together in matrimony. Man received his free will for this.
- But GOD does bind body and soul of a human being together. This is GOD’S LAW and it isn’t subject to man’s free will! Man should not separate this coalition of body and soul, that is to say: Man should not kill!”

“So this is how this was meant”, called out Martin. “The Catholic Church however does persecute all those that want to get divorced. Doing so, the church has made a lot of people very unhappy.”

“Yes, we are aware of this”, answered SHINUN. “You can see my friend just how important a correct interpretation really is. It is about time to create radical order here. Nonsense celebrates veritable triumphs on Terra!”

“One only becomes aware of this once one knows the TRUTH”, said Martin. “I must confess that the TRUTH burdens me very much. All the things I have to contemplate make it difficult for me to sleep.”

“I will induce you to think along different lines now”, answered SHINUN friendly. “We have a kind of ‘cinema’ on board and I will show it to you. We receive three-dimensional pictures taken and transmitted by one of our remote controlled flying objects. This flying object is presently orbiting around your Earth, Mister Berger. The phototelegraphy is a kind of ‘life broadcast’ as one likes to call it on Terra. We do however utilise a different transmission principle.”

MUMTASEE bit Martin and SHINUN good-bye and left the recreation room. SHINUN nodded encouragingly and led his guest to the transmission room.

7. Terra’s level of development

The transmission room wasn’t particularly large. About 50 people could sit in the very comfortable chairs and some of them were already occupied. More patrons arrived by the minute. SHINUN and Martin also sat down. A kind of transparency screen slowly and silently lowered from the ceiling. This transparency screen, virtually a kind of projection screen, was about the size of a large shopwindow. It shimmered white-blue and it was about one metre from the wall. SHINUN noticed Martin’s interest and said:

“The projection screen is double walled and hollow inside. The space in between is filled with a special gas. We see the projected images three-dimensional and in natural colours as you will see shortly.”

An announcement was made in a melodious, but for Martin unintelligible language. SHINUN turned to his guest and said:

“The commentary is unfortunately in our language, but I will interpret it for you. The recording object is situated over the United States of America and it can’t be seen nor located in any way.”

A batik pattern appeared on the screen. The three-dimensional picture that followed was so astoundingly clear and realistic that Martin could not differentiate between the projection and reality. It seemed like he was looking through a large window down to Earth. The journalist in him immediately thought of experiments that had already been undertaken on Earth in regards to this.

“This probe can naturally not go close to the location of the scene without being observed”, explained SHINUN. “We are dealing with ‘telescopic’ images, as one calls them on Terra. You have to admit Mister Berger that this could not be improved upon. Think of the enormous distance involved and the picture is completely free of any interference in spite of this.”

Martin nodded in agreement. He was completely absorbed by this fantastic display of images. The projection showed a large gathering of people, namely coloured people confronting the US National Guards. The background showed a number of buildings brightly aflame. The impression was so realistic that Martin thought that he could actually smell the smoke coming from the burning buildings. Rocks were thrown and some of the coloured people attacked the men from the US National Guards with cudgels.

“We often receive these types of images”, said SHINUN. “What you see here is a recording. It will soon switch to ‘life’.”

The batik pattern appeared once again and it was followed by a clear image of the universe. A terrestrial rocket raced through space. As it entered the image it got larger and larger. SHINUN grabbed Martin by the shoulder and said:

“There, can you see it? The rocket has a leak. It is in dire strait. We don’t know yet whether the crew is okay.”

Martin was shocked. He stared at the large hole in the section of the rocket where all the equipment was located. Where the astronauts already dead? He turned to SHINUN: “Can you help the crew? – Why don’t you interfere and save them if they can still be saved?” SHINUN shook his head and said:

“This is unfortunately impossible. As soon as our flying object nears the terrestrial spaceship, it would be lost, because our magnetic force field would make the rocket go completely off course and all its electronic equipment would fail. Technicians on Terra use a system that is completely different from ours. So as not to put them into any more danger, all we can do is to look on. There would certainly be a possibility of rescue, if these astronauts were in trouble on the Moon.”

Martin observed how small the terrestrial rocket looked in comparison to the gigantic mother-ship of the SANTINER. Like a tin of sardines next to a bathtub, he thought. The size of the extraterrestrial mother-ship was so enormous that it defied all human powers of imagination. – The projection on the screen changed again. It now showed a river where hundreds of bodies were floating around. “What’s this all about?” Martin asked terrified.

“These people were brutally murdered and then thrown into the water”, answered SHINUN. “They are the victims of politics gone mad, victims of fanaticism and insane contrasts. These are things that are beyond our comprehension Mister Berger, because they do not fit in with the characteristics of divine lineage. Do you have an explanation for this?”

Martin could only shake his head. He couldn’t answer this question. Once he had gained his composure he asked SHINUN: “All of this probably takes place on the fringes of a terrible war, probably in South East Asia.”

“If this cruelty takes place on the ‘fringes’ of a war, you should have a look at the centre”, said SHINUN and pointed at the screen.

The image changed and the projection showed an absolute inferno. The three-dimensional projection showed the effects of a heavy bombing attack. The bombs exploded amongst groups of civilians and soldiers and it unsparingly showed the whole gruesome scenario in three-dimensional form. Nothing more could be said about these images. – SHINUN observed Martin from the side. The extraterrestrial recognised the rebellious souls of his terrestrial guest and with a firm voice said:

“This Mister Berger is the level of development on Terra!

Martin had tears in his eyes and he was breathing heavily. SHINUN placed his hand on his shoulder and gave Martin a sign to get up. The extraterrestrial led Martin from the room and said:

“Come with me Mister Berger. We will once again visit ASHTAR SHERAN. You can talk to him about this.”

8. A lot of things go askew on Terra

A few minutes later they entered the cabin of ASHTAR SHERAN. Martin had somewhat regained his composure, but realised that his hands were still shaking a little. After the customary greeting they sat in the comfortable chairs that were there. Martin looked about the room. Wherever he gazed, he couldn’t see a sharp edge, everything had rounded contours and the colours selected were very harmonious. Martin took a deep breath.

“I take it that the performance wasn’t to your liking”, ASHTAR SHERAN began the conversation. “There is a difference between observing such events on Terra directly or from a distance. Nobody on Earth will ever be able to imagine the feelings of astronauts when they look down at their home planet from the Moon. The distance to the object enhances one’s logic and one recognises the absurdity in everything that takes place on this hapless Terra.”

“Yes, you are right”, said Martin. “My sentiments exactly! This is why the images of this war distress me more than they would have in my occupational capacity on Earth. The comprehensive depiction of the extremely realistic projection had naturally something to do with it. This was an extraordinary experience for me.”

*“What you have seen was a battle between different races”, the commander ventured.
“Isn’t it an inhuman situation when people fight against people?”*

“Absolutely”, answered Martin, “I am of the same opinion, but I am not an American.” ASHTAR SHERAN looked sternly at his terrestrial guest and said:

“We have only come across people throughout the universe. – There are no different types of people! There are of course different races, peoples and groups throughout the universe, just like on Terra and they all occupy a different level of development. But all of them – without exception – bear the mark of their divine lineage. Terra is the only place where one has a different point of view. People live there that are of the opinion that there are intermediate levels.”

“What kind of intermediate levels?” Martin asked.

“One assumes on Earth that there are people amongst the coloured races that are still closely related to animals. One doesn’t necessarily talk about it, but it is quite a widespread belief, particularly amongst the white race. The darker, more broad-nosed and flat-browed a coloured people are, the more likely one compares them with apes. This opinion finds support from Darwin’s insane doctrine of ‘On the Origin of Species’. Darwin spoke of a theory, but his atheistic colleagues eventually turned it into a doctrine. The white race now feels ‘more evolved’ and free from any comparison with animals. This self-glorification by the terrestrial white race led to a situation where all coloured people are not considered their equal. This creates a tense atmosphere that conjures up the most gruesome conflicts imaginable. – We consulted our calculator of consequences of actions. Its answer was: ‘The white race prepares its own decline with this attitude’.

- Every human being has the right to redeem himself on Earth and every human being is obliged to respect this god-given assignment!

Are you aware of the things that are taking place on your Terra Mister Berger?”

“No, I am no longer up to date”, Martin replied truthfully.

“Hundreds of millions of people are presently praying for the save return of three astronauts who are in trouble in space”, the WORLD TEACHER mentioned earnestly. “I repeat, they are praying! – A never before experienced sympathy for the plight of these astronauts has gripped almost everybody, without distinction in regards to race and religion. Mankind holds its breath and respects the courage and perseverance of three people from Earth who have volunteered their services in regards to the development of the whole human race, prepared to suffer the consequences of being marooned in space. All of these hundreds of millions of people sense an inner connection from person to person. But how would mankind react, Mister Berger, if there was a jet-black Negro amongst the astronauts? Wouldn’t you also think that this inner connection would immediately suffer a blow?”

- One of the objects of terrestrial redemption consists in that people learn to communicate and to understand one another.

Hundreds of millions of people presently sympathise with three people they don't personally know. They wish them all the luck in the world and they fear for their lives. Why – I ask you – can these hundreds of millions not also show the same sympathy for others they also do not know personally? Do not all of these unknown people also do their part in the construction and configuration of Terra? When people get into trouble, they hope that their fellow men will help them. But when everything is fine, they contemptibly look at those that might be their rescuers the very next day. – I can tell you Mister Berger, mankind's behaviourism on Earth is inconsistent. Things have been askew on Terra for thousands of years. The present empathy shown to the astronauts will soon be forgotten.” –

Martin nodded his head but didn't say anything.

“I will have to say good-bye to you now, Mister Berger”, the WORLD TEACHER said to Martin. “We will soon see each other again.”

The two visitors got up and left the room.

9. The conference

They met up again in the conference hall. The large hall once again had a very ceremonious atmosphere. The faces of those present looked stern and serious. ASHTAR SHERAN opened the conference:

“We will discuss war today. A war the like can only happen on Terra. I will explain why these wars are waged over again and with ever increasing regularity.”

Martin listened with interest. The journalist within stirred and he wanted to get to know the coherences. Martin was aware that these extraterrestrial people were very experienced. Particularly what ASHTAR SHERAN had to say made a lot of sense. One could believe his words unconditionally.

“We are aware that a great mistake was made on Terra and this about 600 years back according to the terrestrial calendar”, the commander continued his talk. “This mistake delivered a devastating blow to the Christian religion on Earth, because it lost its pertinence! One can also omit TRUTHS and this is just as bad as spreading aberrations.

But in regards to your brothers on Earth, the mistake made goes back a lot further. We are dealing with pre-existence, that is to say, with the human existence that is mirrored in many past lives. It is generally known that every human being lives many lives in the flesh. This serves him to learn, to experience, to refine – in fact his overall development. –

Those that cannot comprehend this are beyond my help. Such a person remains stationary in its development or it might even fall way behind.

Man on Terra has left a series of animalistic precursors behind him that can be counted in millions of years. Up to the emergence of ‘Neanderthal Man’, these precursors could not be classified as 'human beings'. The human soul had not yet found an object that suited its development. 'Neanderthal Man' was the first to receive a human soul."

Martin put up his hand and said: "If Moses received his indoctrinations on an extraterrestrial spaceship he must surely have been informed that Adam and Eve were created by GOD."

"One has to take into consideration that Moses was illiterate", said ASHTAR SHERAN. "Moses received the WORLD'S LAWS from our forefathers, but Moses destroyed this literature in a fit of rage and thereby robbed mankind of some elementary KNOWLEDGE. The priests then wrote some of the things Moses told them down. There were also a number of things amongst this that Moses did not comprehend at all.

Now to 'Adam and Eve': Human beings didn't appear on Earth alone, they appeared throughout the universe. The moment the development of an inhabitable planet had progressed to a point where incarnations could take place, human beings made an appearance. A terrestrial human being can already have had a pre-existence on another planet.

- The story of 'Adam and Eve' is fiction!

Our forefathers tried to explain to Moses that all human beings were formed from the same material. They also told him that one's wife does not consist of any other material, but of flesh and blood, as 'if' fashioned from one of his ribs.

We possess a number of gadgets that assist us in studying various languages; however there were difficulties in communicating in those days. Our forefather therefore utilised symbols, but they were not understood.

Due to the fact that people continue to return to Earth for periods of time, they continue to partake of the things they have created themselves. Man made planet Earth what it is today. When people talk about 'previous generations', they are always included in that statement. All their reproach is therefore directed at themselves!

Terrestrial mankind has waged wars against one another for thousands of years. For thousands of years man has also deceived his fellow men wherever and whenever he can, tried to oppress, to exploit, to abuse and to defile them. The living and not their imaginary ancestors that are regarded departed forever, have always encumbered themselves with debts. Advancement progresses through experience during every life on Earth. An entelegy⁶ always remains intact. Intuitive, subconscious fragments of character traits are not only inherited from one's parents, they are partially present at birth already. The LAW 'EACH TO HIS OWN' is inviolable! Similarity attracts similarity like a magnet.

A new born child without pre-existence would be so simple minded and undeveloped that it would never find its way in a highly technological world. Only the fragments of its available subconscious experiences make it conversant with its environment and all facets of its practical existence. – One has placed children of cannibals alongside of European children in classrooms. These children, without fail, had no problem of finding their way through class, because their pre-existence enabled them to do so.”

Martin listened attentively. He was hearing something here that no university taught. This was like a clap of thunder against the Soviet Dialectic Materialism that had contaminated planet Earth.

“It is absolutely absurd”, ASHTAR SHERAN continued with his speech, “to assert that consciousness is tied to physical matter, because if this was so, telepathy would not exist and we would be unable to undertake the kind of trips through space the way we do without it.

All human beings on Terra have been confronted with murder and manslaughter for millennia. They have laid a hand on their brother themselves or at least prepared or condoned such an act. This is the reason why they are unable to leave the redeeming planet Earth; they continue to fall back to Earth like raindrops until their conversion is completed.

The intuitive memory of all pre-existences burdens terrestrial man to such a degree that his spirit is infected by it. Destructiveness, envy or sadism is already apparent in children!

Man on Earth loves colourful uniforms, glistening medals, heroism and the barbarous annihilation of confabulated enemies. War is not a singularity, Mister Berger, but inherited and with its superlative atrociousness, the result of the insanity of past lives. War is an inherited mental disease that has grown into an epidemic. – The CREATOR and PLANER has called mankind into being and man rewards HIM with this indescribable kind of blasphemy.”

Martin entered the conversation once again and said: “Let’s assume that everything you say is correct, authorities on Earth will still advocate their own opinion and say: ‘If I am unaware in a future life of what and who I was before, it is of no interest to me now what I will be in the future’. The WORLD TEACHER made a dismissive gesture:

“This is a mistake Mister Berger, because the LAW of CAUSE ad EFFECT endures forever! The cause might be found in a previous life; the effect can fulfil itself in another life. And in addition to this there is the INTERMEDIATE REALM where man’s spirit dwells at times. All wars waged throughout the ages have never really abated. Even during seemingly quiet periods of peace, future wars are being prepared all the time.

War can neither be excused nor palliated. Every song about heroism is an infamous lie. I call the whole thing an inherited vulgarity, something mankind has not given serious thought to.

- But in order to guard against any difficulties that might arise, one has introduced the dogma to the world that the MESSIAH, JESUS CHRIST was the scapegoat that had to atone for everybody’s sins and who was willing to take on all associated guilt.

This was a true masterpiece of religious impudence!

Any false interpretation of an original religion acts like blinkers put on those in authority; they do not see the real outcome, namely the one they mercilessly come up with and pay for with the people's money. It is difficult to say whether one should feel sorry for these people or whether one should feel a quiet satisfaction. The people on Earth are an enigma to us. We therefore keep a certain distance. The sinister influence of incredulous church religions has totally corrupted this world.

We are appalled by the constant preparations for genocide. The sciences are well aware of the LAW of CAUSE and EFFECT, but when dealing with murdering people, it is not taken into consideration. The account will however have to be squared! We SANTINER cannot comprehend that hundred of billions are provided for mass-murder. One still expects an attack that could annihilate the whole world even during intervals between wars.

- Why is any other human being always regarded a dangerous enemy?
- Why does one not utilise the divine grace and take advantage of redemption?

Because of false religious doctrines, ignorant, atheistic scientists are encouraged to deny man's pre-existence. They also ridicule the idea of one's survival after one's disembodiment. Once they arrive in the spiritual realm, they cry like starving wolves about their mistakes. We are surprised that one even has the impudence of portraying us as 'objects of fantasy'.

"I believe that one is not exactly aware that extraterrestrial people observe planet Earth", Martin interjected. "If extraterrestrial people would walk on Earth these days, they would no longer be regarded gods, as was the case in the past. It is more a case of not understanding extraterrestrial technology, because terrestrial science has established limits that allegedly can not be crossed. Researchers have nothing to compare the extraterrestrial technology with". ASHTAR SHERAN nodded his approval and said:

"There is some truth in what you say. We are very well informed about all the preparation for war and all defensive mechanisms in case of war made by the major countries on Terra. We know for instance ever detail of 'NORAD'. The North-American defence line in Canada has some very expensive facilities that we admire to some degree. Our technical equipment of equal proportion on the other and is not geared for warfare or defence. We have peaceful tasks to solve. This one here also! The NORAD system can detect even a splinter of a grenade within the atmosphere of Terra."

"So when an extraterrestrial flying object flies over North Canada for instance, it must be recognised and trigger an alarm", answered Martin. "The object is categorised, traced and observed in a bunker that is situated 1,000 metres underground. One has allegedly been unable to categorically observe and pursue such an object. In my role as a journalist, I am aware of this defence line."

"We also know about NORAD", the extraterrestrial replied. "Even the most sensitive electronic equipment of NORAD gives us any trouble at all. Not one of our flying objects that pass through NORAD'S defence shield can be sighted unless we want it to be sighted. Our – let's call it – 'electro-magnetic protective shield', whose frequencies cannot be measured by any terrestrial instrument, makes any observation impossible. This is also the reason why the term 'hallucination' is used, because it entirely depends on its electronic gadgetry. Every one of our flying objects is capable of pulling the terrestrial command centre's leg. If we wanted to wage war against Terra, the NORAD system with all its technological installations would simply be a joke."

Martin lowered his head. He gave up. This universal humanity from space did indeed sound like 'gods'. They possessed means and forces the like were unknown on Earth. Martin realised that there were not just a few things askew on Earth, but an enormous amount and they created an exceedingly dangerous situation. Some of these things might be modified and changed for the better, but Martin felt that to reform so many things would be well nigh impossible. As he thought about this, he was gripped by a regular depression.

"Warfare is something man has to deal with right from the beginning of his existence", the WORLD TEACHER continued. "War is however by no means a necessity, but a pacification of one's pre-existent bellicosity, something man brings with him when he's born on Terra. This lust for combat is more powerful than the will for peace!"

- Peace cannot be achieved through agreements or compromises, also not through limitations put on a titanic armament program, but only through better insights in regards to all mental potentials and by combating the prevalent pugnacity in man."

"I can't imagine that this pugnacity exist in every human being. I also don't believe that I possess such a character trait", Martin interjected.

"Don't fool yourself, my friend", said ASHTAR SHERAN. "You are also not completely free of this bellicosity. We know that you enjoy going to the football and that boxing triggers a veritable enthusiasm in you. You also amuse yourself whenever winning and losing play a big part. But when no genuine satisfaction can be gained, man will willingly fight with his own wife. An attorney fights his adversary and a politician fights his rival. War reigns on Terra and its aggression is directed against everything, this also applies in business dealings! I can only advice you Mister Berger to fight an inexorable battle against any type of aggression in the name of peace. This is the only way your world will ever enjoy peace!"

The venerable O SHUR entered the conversation and said:

"Our brothers on Earth unfortunately know all too little about themselves and this is due to the fact that they only believe in physical things. They regard human beings as nothing more than 'organised' matter. But what is human matter all about? Matter, even if it is part of the human makeup, rots away when bereft of life. What do you think this spaceship is worth Mister Berger?"

Martin was more than just surprised by this question. It took quite a while for him to gather his thoughts before he answered: "I have no idea how much such a spaceship would cost". The extraterrestrial slowly nodded his head and said:

“You will be surprised. One single human being created by GOD is more valuable than this spaceship. I will explain this to you:

- The whole universe is mirrored within a human being. Eons are anchored and summarised in man’s development.
- Man’s mental functions are so paramount that they place man at the zenith of all existing life. Man’s conscious functions and man’s fantasy and creative activity, all of this is much more valuable than this spaceship. No invention can replace all the functions a human being is capable of. A spaceship might race through space from planet to planet, but man’s spirit outflanks it by far.
- Man’s spirit is immortal and so anchored within the cosmos and so associated with GOD that there is nothing next to the human spirit that even comes close to equalling it.

As luck would have, this marvel of CREATION cannot be destroyed!

One can however take man’s instrument of redemption away, namely the physical body the human spirit utilises. This ‘double’ possesses functions that no human intelligence could possibly conceive and create. This human ‘double’ is therefore also more valuable than any type of object made by human hands.

Did one never ever give this a thought on Terra?

One lauds and reveres the great socialists, reformers and revolutionists, one teaches the words of eminent philosophers, but when did just one of them indicate how valuable one single human being really is? –

From the very beginning of mankind on Earth, man has persecuted man. Himself! One despises one’s fellow men in an incredible way without taking one’s fellow men’s real value into consideration. Even a most outstanding character like the one that manifested in JESUS was not spared. One showed no mercy. JESUS was attacked, disowned, betrayed, persecuted and murdered. Thousands who genuinely cared about mankind’s development followed HIM.

According to your opinion Mister Berger, how should we rate mankind on Earth?”

Martin put his hands over his ears. “Stop please!” Martin interjected. This was too much for his pained nerves. Nobody had ever used such words when talking to him. Martin was deeply ashamed to be part of a human race that showed such flaws in its development. But what was even worse: He actually had these flaws himself!

SHINUN benevolently placed a hand on the trembling journalist. The extraterrestrial felt sorry for his terrestrial brother who was visibly upset. ASHTAR SHERAN once again took hold of the conversation and said:

“You will now understand Mister Berger how important this conference really is. Where else could we hold such a conference? The people on Earth have undoubtedly made great strides over the last few years and accomplished bodacious things in regards to science and technology. But its concentration on genocide stands in crass contrast to these accomplishments. The best inventions are utilised to serve killing people. Are terrestrial leaders too weak to affect a change within human behaviourism?

What I find most destructive is the fact that the terminology 'superstition' is not sufficiently differentiated. Everything that doesn't fit within the laws of physics is categorically called superstition. Superstition however means: Belief in something that doesn't really exist, something based on imagination, on illusion. The sciences have not been willing up to now to take a closer look at superstition.

Scientists are not omniscient! They also descend from terrestrial parents and most of those were simple people. Progressive naturalism turns against superstition and would like to completely eliminate it. One should however not throw the baby out with the bathwater. Apart from many aberrations, superstition possesses many fragments of the TRUTH. We are not dealing with the 'Number 13' or a 'Black Friday', but with the fabulous realities of an INVISIBLE WORLD, one that is closely related to man's consciousness. Fantasy is a part of an unknown REALITY."

The commander interrupted his speech. A member of the crew entered and handed the commander a message. He thanked the messenger, read the message and said:

"I have just found out that the terrestrial astronauts are on a direct course to Earth. I am pleased that the terrestrial spaceship is on the right track. The courage these men show is to be admired. They could easily have broken down under the demands put upon them."

Martin registered his thoughts by asking: "There are terrestrial authors that insist that they have been to planet Mars with extraterrestrials. Can you confirm this?" ASHTAR SHERAN smiled and answered:

"I can well understand that we animate terrestrial man's fantasy. This is the reason why they initially thought that we were 'Gods'. But what these authors assert is fiction. Nobody from Earth has ever set foot on Mars. Life on that planet has almost completely died out. This is one reason why this planet is of little interest to us."

The conference ended shortly after.

10. Good and evil

The conference had demanded a lot from Martin. He therefore visited the comfortable recreation room in order to relax. As if arranged, he met up with NAMO who was already seated at a small table and looked over to where he was. The journalist greeted her and the extraterrestrial offered him a seat at her table. Martin got stuck into NAMO straight away: "What do you know about pedagogics?"

NAMO smiled and said: "Your stay here on board our spaceship, Mister Berger, is nothing else but practical pedagogics. We train you here to become a real person. You already apply different standards than before in your observations and your assessment. I am of the opinion that the communicated yardsticks on Earth are incorrect and the name of the respective educational facilities is completely inconsequential. What is taught there is of importance.”

“You mean to say that the lessons taught at our schools are wrong?” Martin asked.

“Terrestrial education is incomplete”, said NAMO. “There is more to managing people’s development! An individual can have absorbed a lot of knowledge, but that doesn’t necessarily turn him or she into an evolved person, that is to say, the knowledge will not have changed the individual’s character.”

“Can you explain this to me in more detail?” Martin asked NAMO.

“Certainly Mister Berger, but you are unfortunately still afflicted by prejudices and they hamper your understanding. But I am willing to give it a try:

- There are for instance your terrestrial history lessons: They teach young people to hate other nations and also about committed war crimes. Young people become biased in regards to their country and their people and they accept everything their nation has attained. All other nations are described as enemies and if they should have ‘accidentally’ won a victory, such an event would cry out for revenge. This falsely programs young people from the start. Enmities are created and propagated.*
- A sexual revolution is presently breaking down all barriers. Under the maxim of ‘sex education’ bawdiness in all its variations is exposed. What is your opinion of ‘sex education’, Mister Berger? Is it actually necessary? Using your terminology, I call it ‘pornography’. This connotation expresses everything, namely obscene, shameless smut literature and it has nothing to do with a really necessary sex education. This sexual revolution is the result of imperfect terrestrial laws. We are dealing with a terrible abuse of permitted freedom. Profiteering from bawdiness and a complete failure of the authorities to do something about it has led to this situation.*

Lack of intelligence and low moral standards clearly show the terrestrial level we find no suitable words for to describe. This has nothing to do with a really required sex education. My personal opinion is that I hold this undesirable development to be the result of pleasure in swinishness. Why do you think our forefathers destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah Mister Berger?

The denotation of ‘sex education’ is just a veil for the obscene. The terrestrial nation of Denmark was the first to officially allow pornography. Its government had no objections!

This derailment is only a part of the general disruption of the human spirit. The people on this beautiful Terra are unaware of the true backgrounds of this undesirable development, because they immediately think of superstition.”

NAMO had expressed herself very clearly and she showed genuine indignation. She unmistakably distanced herself from terrestrial education. Next to her enormous knowledge she also had something genteel about her, something that clearly attracted Martin’s attention. “What has superstition to do with it?” Martin wanted to know.

“A lot”, answered the extraterrestrial, “but this is not all that easy to explain. The fact is that the concepts of ‘good’ and ‘evil’ are not just words. A human being is not just good or evil; there are two unimaginable spiritual ORGANIZATIONS behind these concepts. We are also part of one of these spiritual ORGANIZATIONS, namely the ORGANIZATION of the GREAT PLANNER.

- Human beings are controlled from the spiritual regions. Terrestrial man is unaware of this invisible AUTHORITY.

The human brain consists of two parts and they have completely different functions to perform. One erroneously assumes on Terra that one half of the brain lies almost completely fallow. But this is a mistake! This particular part of the brain might not be used for one’s personal thought processes, but it is highly sensitive in regards to receiving transcendental INSPIRATION.

The people on Earth believe that they are the producer of all their own thoughts. This is not the case! Humans receive feelings, instructions, commands and many thought impulses through a yet unidentified part of the brain and they are registered and undergoing control within the other half of the brain. But if this control is not functioning properly, if it is subject to negative influences, poisoned or untrained, people do not register differences within their consciousness. However as soon as a person recognises that the transcendental part of the brain is active, he talks about ‘inspiration’, an ‘inner voice’, a ‘conscience’ or ‘higher intuition’. Atheistic psychologists however talk about something completely different, namely of a ‘split personality’, an illness they call ‘schizophrenia’.

The good as well as the evil spiritual ORGANIZATION has its leaders. The terrestrial religions call the evil leadership: Devil, Satan, Maru or Sheitan (Devil in Arabic). These names have become known all over the world. People on Earth have come across this terrible spirit force completely independently from one another. Only an overemphasis of materialism has pushed this dangerous spirit force somewhat into the background. The titanic battle against GOD is prepared and continued from an ambush with the help of mankind on Earth. We are therefore not surprised that such chaotic situations arise on Terra.”

“But the universe is so incredibly large”, Martin said. “Why is such a superlative BATTLE specifically waged on Earth?”

“This BATTLE was already raging for many thousands of years in the spiritual REGIONS prior to raging on Earth. Due to the fact that Terra is a planet of redemption, the negative ORGANIZATION expanded their battlefield to include Terra. This is supposed to deprive the people on Earth of GOD’S GRACE and of their chance of redemption. This villainous intention by the evil INTELLIGENCES has scored a great success with the help of mankind on Earth.”

“This is an excellent theoretical explanation”, said Martin who was not quite convinced. The extraterrestrial shook his head and said:

“This is not a theory, but absolutely real theology and also the origin of all wars.”

“How do you know this so accurately?” Martin asked.

“There is no impenetrable wall between the physical and the spiritual REGIONS” NAMO ventured. “Both REGIONS touch and penetrate into each other, because the human soul, with its spiritual consciousness, is closely related to the spiritual REGIONS.”

We SANTINER, correspond with the good ORGANIZATION. JESUS also utilised it. We receive INFORMATION from this transcendental WORLD and this has continuously promoted our development.

- The devil is not some harmless fairytale figure, but astute enough to deny his own existence. He does not want to be identified as an enemy. This is his tried and tested tactics.”

“You mentioned sex. Is there anything else you want to add to this?” Martin asked NAMO.

“Oh yes!” said NAMO. “Sex is for lovers, because it deals with procreation. Sex is an individual, purely personal affair between two genders and no third person has a place within its parameters. Sexual love should therefore not be exposed to profanities.”

“One is in favour of confronting young children with the subject here on Earth”, said Martin.

“We are aware of this”, said the extraterrestrial. “We are also in favour of a timely, but healthy sex education.”

- Children on our home planet are instructed about the meaning of divine LOVE at an appropriate age. This is followed by indoctrination in regards to mutual respect between people and finally by inducing a high respect for the other gender, particularly for women, because they play the major role in regards to living standards. Only once children have grasped all of this, will they be informed about the biological side of it. If the doctrine of LOVE and respect for the other gender is not taught, only swinishness will remain, because this is the only way children will understand it.”

Martin was very impressed by these few words. Earth truly needed archetypes and NAMO was a perfect example.

“The eerie, negative SPIRIT, with only destruction on its mind, knows the vulnerable points and weaknesses of every human being. GOD’S antagonist walks along an absolutely mapped out path that effortlessly leads him from one success to another.”

One of the weaknesses man succumbs to is in regards to sexual love. From prostitution and all other perversities right down to public pornography, the negative has an easy time in dragging people down. People who value nothing, who neither believe in GOD nor the devil, completely unaware of the survival of the soul, do a most infamous and filthy trade by dragging love through the mud.

We SANTINER are not adverse to naturalness, even if it is of a sexual character. Pornography however has nothing to do with this naturalness. Pornography is a deliberate defilement of the human soul, moral and healthy sentiment."

"Are we dealing with a state condoned crime here?" Martin asked.

"The state bears the responsibility for educating and disciplining its people", NAMO ventured. "But what do government do in this respect? – Based on our enquiries I know that the leaders on Earth side with the NEGATIVE, they are therefore in a different camp.

A person who is interested in such a deformation of LOVE will lose its good taste and will inevitably lose its good health because of this devilry. Such an illness is hardly curable. It can bring about complete impotence!"

"Would you say that the present fascination with pornography represents a retrograde step in man's underdevelopment?"

"No, pornography has nothing to do with man's underdevelopment", answered the extraterrestrial. "It is a deliberate attempt to make money from people's sexual urges. Any other description will only divert attention from the real issues. Primitive tribes distance themselves from this type of sexual exposure. These people look upon sexual love as a divine act, a call on CREATION that even finds expression in their temples. But what does an allegedly civilised person, who asserts to be better than those so-called underdeveloped savages, do"

- Physical love is taboo! What people in love do should remain their secret; because they alone can understand their behaviourism whilst outsiders only frivolously palter with it.

Pornographic behaviourism is the most abominable thing man can do with the help of his misguided intelligence. We do not feel sorry for these people, because they corrupt youth and millions of other people also. These people deprive themselves of their own redemption and this means that they have lived a futile existence on this beautiful Terra.

Procreation is sacred! It is however desecrated. We undertake long and dangerous journeys in order to prevent this and in order to enlighten people. I can't understand that one could be so dumb that one has to drag the human procreative act through the mud like this. It is an absolute indicator of the incredible blight of the human spirit that has completely lost its good taste. We SANTINER wait for the spiritual breakthrough here on Terra. A new order must eventuate. Our endeavours must induce contemplation."

"Don't you also think that this negative occurrence will disappear of its own accord?" Martin asked.

"The obscene and vulgar might lead to abhorrence", opined NAMO. "I am convinced that these examples have an effect on other nations. This will promote the discovery that mankind on Earth cannot progress due to such derailments. Puritanism will no longer exist in the future, because the masses have been too explicitly enlightened in regards to sex, but it is imperative that new boundaries are established. One will have to better understand the difference between what is required in sex education and what is indecent. Pornography can also not be excluded, because it is also subject to the LAWS of cause and effect."

"Do you know what co-education is all about?" Martin asked.

"Do you mean the education of both genders in the same classroom?" NAMO asked.

"Yes, that's it. What is your opinion about this?" Martin asked NAMO.

"Pornography is part of this coeducation", the extraterrestrial said. "The different genders have plenty of opportunities to get together after school. They act constrained, unnatural and pretentious when they sit in class together. Disobedience with its anti-authoritarian behaviourism, combined with a mighty rowdiness within the classroom, is the result of this. Each gender wants to show what it is capable of.

- I assert that joint education devalues the sexes. The fact that this has not yet been discovered is incredible.

The complete devaluation of people already comes about through the lack of respect of one another. One's privacy is invaded and this removes one's sense of modesty. One's sense of modesty is however a very important character trait and it is absolutely required for the natural and healthy cohabitation with others. The people on Earth have no idea about how important this sense of modesty really is. It is directly connected with the mutual respect for one another. One cannot love a woman that has no sense of modesty; and the same applies in reverse. You must surely have known for a long time just how important love is in regards to the cohabitation of people."

"Please continue, these aspects are very interesting", said Martin.

"The scientists are aware of the enormous processes taking place within the female body", said NAMO. "But where is the reverence for this magnificent process? Don't you also think that the procreative act is a part of this? The sciences should at least be committed to indicate the sacredness of procreation. Are your sciences on Terra already brutalised and dulled to such a degree that they can't?"

"What can one do?" asked the journalist.

"Only a normal, healthy cohabitation between the sexes can save Terra from doom", said NAMO very earnestly.

- The growing degeneration of the younger generation already warns about a terrible future.
- Terrestrial mankind requires better leaders, leaders not only adults, but also juveniles can look up to in awe and with trust."

“When it comes to moral armament, there is not enough money available”, Martin said bitterly.

“This is a regrettable mistake”, said NAMO. “I was told that many billions were appropriated for defence in your country alone. How much do you believe one is prepared to place at the disposal of the spiritual defence on Terra?”

“What do you mean by ‘spiritual’ defence?” asked Martin.

“I simply mean our endeavours in regards to enlightening and indoctrinating you. The insights we communicate to you are extremely valuable, because they are designed to make a contribution towards peace and the redemption of human beings. One always talks about ‘weapons armament’, but never about arming oneself with the TRUTH.”

“What is your opinion in regards to emancipation?” Martin asked inquisitively.

“I am not familiar with this expression”, said the extraterrestrial. “Would you please explain it to me?”

“I mean equal rights for women”, explained Martin. Emancipation equates women’s rights in many respects with the rights of men. This equal rights issue is however handled differentially in different countries.”

“I understand. The wording ‘equal rights’ is inappropriate here. I am in favour of not discriminating against women. Women should certainly not be men’s slaves. Women should also have real opportunities of advancement in their professional careers. The same applies here also. In regards to Terra, they should also receive the right of co-determination in politics.

- I am against women trying to discriminate against men or trying to better them in a competition. Instead of the terminology of ‘equal rights’ one should use ‘social assimilation’. Falsely interpreted rights lead to a back to front life style and inevitably to decadence.

When a woman tries too hard to overtrump a man, her whole hormonal cycle is automatically disturbed. The hormonal household of women is the most important thing they biologically possess. Decadence always results in negative consequences that might not always become immediately apparent.

- In spite of all her ambitions and industriousness, a woman should always retain her femininity.

The equalisation of women changes their physiology to such a degree that their body no longer coincides with the spiritual MODEL. What will eventually happen, when the sexual differences become blurred?”

“What do you mean by ‘spiritual model?’” asked Martin.

“My dear brother from Terra”, the extraterrestrial said. “You also couldn’t build a specific car if you didn’t have the correct plans for it. It is the same with Mother Nature. All of CREATION is based on PLANS and MODELS that are spiritually available and physical Mother Nature works with them. The same applies to people. These spiritual MODELS correspond with the DNA, that is to say, with man's genes.

- The INFORMATION imparted in the DNA stems from the spiritual MODELS GOD designed and created. DNA molecules are just the recipients of these spiritual IMPULSES. They strictly abide by them - unless GOD'S antagonist interferes. But man, who is GOD'S partner, respectively should be GOD'S partner, can change and can be influenced."

11. Negative transfiguration

SHINUN entered the room. NAMO and Martin interrupted their conversation and looked at SHINUN who approached their table, with anticipation. SHINUN quickly said hello, turned to Martin and said:

"I have come because I bring you a forewarning."

"Did something happen?" Martin asked anxiously as he jumped to his feet.

"No, no, nothing will happen anytime soon. You are very safe when you fly with us Mister Berger. But something will change very soon. Please don't be alarmed. This will not last long. You will certainly return to your original physical state after. In a moment we will switch to anti-matter. Once the repolarisation has taken place, our spaceship will fly a multiple of the speed of light. Yes, Mister Berger, you are a long, long way from home."

"Incredible!" Martin called out and placed his hands on his hips. "Something like this only happens in science-fiction novels." SHINUN smiled and said:

"The most bodacious human fantasy is continuously superseded. This is not different in our case. The word 'impossible' always only applies to present insights, means and experiences."

Martin suddenly felt hot inside. For a fraction of a second he lost consciousness. He blinked his eyes and shook his head. He didn't want to believe what he saw with his own eyes: NAMO and SHINUN appeared double. Completely disorientated he looked around in order to also catch a glimpse of himself. His own body was also somewhat removed from himself. Martin was speechless. – Gravity was completely abrogated. But Martin didn't float in spite of this. He gradually began to move his limbs in order to walk a little. He was successful, but he only managed a few steps. He felt a little eerie and was afraid to move too far away from his "twin". After a short period of time, the two separate bodies merged once again into one unit. The same happened to the two extraterrestrials. The feeling of being hot abated rapidly and he was soon his old self again. The smell of frankincense permeated the air. Martin turned to SHINUN and said: "This actually didn't take very long. It was however incredible!" Martin sat down and SHINUN also did likewise.

"What distance do you think we have travelled during the blink of an eye, Mister Berger?" asked the extraterrestrial. "You can't imagine it. It is a distance that is far greater than the distance between Terra and its moon. What you have just experienced is a kind of disembodiment that is not unlike the experience of really dying. Your soul, with its spirit body, became independent, but it remained connected to the physical body in spite of this. Something like this happens on Terra during a so-called 'LSD-trip', as one is apt to call it there."

"One has been unwilling up to now to believe that something like this can really happen", Martin said. "This was the most important object-lesson I have ever had. Some of our scientists should experience this. I would dearly like to know what they would say to this."

"They would presumably also find a weak explanation for this, calling it a 'subconscious hallucination for instance'", said SHINUN.

"I am being acquainted with subjects here that I never had any prior interest in", said Martin more to himself than anybody else.

"This is a common mistake that most people on Earth make", said SHINUN. "Most people show a complete disinterest in the most important things in life and because they are so disinterested, they have no inkling about it. This saves them from having to contemplate this more closely and from entering into any discussions about this."

"You mentioned LSD-trips", said Martin. "You are obviously aware that drugs are used on Earth."

"Certainly", answered the extraterrestrial. "We are informed about it and we are appalled. This sin is also part of the demonic undermining of mankind. Those that have just in inkling of the universal, divine REALITY better leave this alone! It represents the fastest way to gain access to the REGIONS of HELL. Drinking alcohol is also part of this, particularly once one has crossed a certain limit. The unknown encountered during such a 'trip' – as it is called on Terra – is something we are familiar with. The enmeshment of the soul with its body is loosened, something akin to what you have experienced here just now. The soul simply alights through the cranium of the physical body. One can then walk about and experience parts of another SPHERE. But believe you me Mister Berger, this type of SPHERE is not recommendable."

"I have been told that impressions gained during an LSD-trip are supposed to be very colourful", said Martin.

"Yes, that may be, but have you never heard about negative transfiguration?" SHINUN asked his terrestrial guest.

Martin slowly shook his head.

"Well then listen to me carefully, Mister Berger and tell everybody on Terra about this!" the extraterrestrial emphasised his forceful words. "The CREATOR'S antagonist transfigured his endeavours with careful deliberation. His creation is colourful, interesting, grotesque and bizarre. This deceives people so much that they do not immediately recognise its dangerous negativity. An orchid for instance might look beautiful and smell intoxicative, but it can still have a fatal effect. –

These are things that most people on Earth are hardly aware of and those that have heard about it are of the opinion that they are dealing with fantasies here. But every theatre has its stage and its various backdrops. Only the people on Earth feel so smart that they no longer feel it necessary to look behind the scenes. The world stage produces dramas and tragedies, because the devil holds the reins behind the scenes. The devil does not allow the audience to see him, but his MIGHT is great! The negative is embellished. The devil emblazons his cronies and murderous companions. Just look at the chequered uniforms and the medals of military personnel. Everything looks wonderful, but what is actually hidden behind it all? Mankind's leaders and diplomats have always dressed up like peacocks. They still wear sashes and gold embroidered coattails even now. – Have a look at our commander. His uniform also glistens golden, but there are no medals and there is no sash, there is no marquetry.

Go and visit a night club on Earth one day that deals with drugs. You will be blinded by the colourful lamps and searchlights. But what's behind it all is important! All of this is controlled and inspired and without noticing it, people are like marionettes! Disharmonious sounds and rapid beats underpin this macabre transfiguration. – We SANTINER hope that this St. Vitus dance will soon come to an end."

A chime rang out through the recreation room.

"We are called", said SHINUN. "Another conference is about to take place. This might be the last one for you."

12. The miracle of Fatima

Only about half the participants were present in the conference hall this time. ASHTAR SHERAN already sat in his usual chair. After welcoming all those present, the commander began with the following words:

"We didn't convene an interstellar conference today, but only a small round of discussions. We want to talk about a very important event that took place on Terra. Our spaceship is presently heading towards your home planet Mister Berger. We will soon land again in New Mexico at exactly the same place where we took you on board."

Martin nodded his head, but didn't say anything. He surprised himself by not feeling all that pleased about having to leave the SANTINER and their spaceship. Surprised at his own reaction he pursued his own line of thoughts, but was distracted by the words of the commander.

"The 'Miracle of Fatima'⁷ is the most positive proof of our extraterrestrial existence", said the extraterrestrial commander and WORLD TEACHER. "There is no better evidence. The churches are however not pleased when somebody corrects their Mariolatry. Church representative do not shy away from lying or from promoting a blasphemy; they will defend an untruth even after they have already recognised it for what it is."

"Aren't you judging the church a little bit too harshly?" Martin interjected.

"Oh, no! On the contrary – I have been much too restrained", answered the commander emphatically. "You see Mister Berger, the churches ceremoniously bless their church bells, but when it comes to murdering on masse, they do not have the courage to defend their consecrated bells; they are taken down and melted down in order to kill and maim people. This has happened in the past – and this is just one example of many!

And now to Fatima: In 1917, terrestrial time, we received the assignment to warn the people on Earth about approaching, dangerous disputes. We brought one of our ambassadors to the vicinity of Fatima in a discus shaped flying object. He was supposed to bring his message in Portuguese.

In order to preserve the extraterrestrial character of this message, we selected three shepherd children whose intellect was not mature enough to invent such a message themselves. One has to be aware that this was an extraterrestrial, one might also called it a supernatural memorandum. Due to the fact that our ambassador had long hair and was superhumanly beautiful to terrestrial eyes, he was thought to be CHRIST'S mother.

We established a number of contacts with these shepherd children – and like in the past when one thought that we were 'Gods', the catholic inhabitants of the region saw this as a heavenly apparition within the parameters of their religion. This estimation was however very counterproductive in regards to our intentions. Levitations even emphasised the supernatural side of this. But because the shepherd's children capacity to memorise things wasn't particularly pronounced and because they were afraid, our conversations were always short and to the point."

The commander attracted SO SHIIN'S attention and said:

"SO SHIIN can give us more exact details about this, because he knows the original text of the Catholic Church, who had arranged for the miracle of Fatima to be recorded."

SO SHIIN skimmed through a book and began to read the following text:

"We are dealing with the third apparition from the 13th of July 1917: A great throng of people from the whole region was assembled at Cova da Iria. There were about 4,000 to 5,000 people there. A bright lightning suddenly lit up the sky. This light came from the East. The masses knelt at Lucia's request. All those present perceived a small white cloud that enveloped the site of the apparition. The light coming from the Sun was clearly subdued. These same signs were repeated at all consequent apparition."

ASHTAR SHERAN raised his hand and added:

"Our flying objects were often perceived in the form of a shining disk or sphere. The magnetic force field created a very powerful aura of light. The atoms within the atmosphere also changed and this made strange flakes fall from the sky, but they dissolved soon after. Every one of our flying objects can scorch the earth or trigger a hurricane. A hefty gale always blows when a flying discus descends."

The WORLD TEACHER gave SO SHIIN a friendly nod and SO SHIIN continued with his reading:

“We conveyed the message through the shepherd children that we would produce a ‘miracle’ in the sky on the 13th of October 1917. As the children didn’t know what a phenomenon was, we let them think that it was going to be a divine miracle.

At least 70,000 people had already congregated on the said day in order to observe the announced miracle. The original protocol reports:

‘The major newspapers had sent their best reporters. It rained. The sun was hidden behind a cloud. The crowd sang devout songs. At exactly 12 o’clock Lucia called out: ‘There, I can see her!’ The rain stopped suddenly. Lucia called out: ‘Look at the sun!’ The assembled crowd now observed a bodacious spectacle. The heavy mass of rain clouds flew apart. The sun appeared like a shining silver disk that could be observed effortlessly and without the danger of damaging one’s eyes. It began to spin like a Catherine Wheel. It shone in all the colours of the rainbow and emitted flames of light and sheaves of fire in all directions.’”

This is the Vatican’s original protocol. 70,000 eyewitnesses have seen this UFO phenomenon! The phenomenon coincides with thousands of similar UFO sightings. To deny these facts is a malicious calumny and discrimination without equal.

Dear readers, remember that the SANTINER participated in this highly interesting report. The SANTINER are really interested in having the TRUTH spread all over the world. In Brazil, one more publishing company declared its willingness to publish this SANTINER message in Portuguese.

Psychic Peace Circle, Berlin

ASHTAR SHERAN once again interrupted SO SHIIN’S explanations at this point. The commander got to his feet and said:

“This is a perfect description of one of the subjects under discussion. The sun was hidden behind clouds. Nobody could see it. The blast of air coming from the spaceship parted the heavy rain clouds and lots of people could clearly see it.

The sun does not shine silvery and one can also not look into it for any length of time. Light emanations coming from the sun in all the colours of the rainbow are also not common place, but they are a typical side effect of our spaceships when they make contact with the atmosphere. There is nothing more to explain here, Mister Berger.”

The commander gave a sign and SO SHIIN continued reading:

“The Vatican’s protocol, penned by P. L. Gonzaga S. J. professor at the Papal Bible Institute in Rome, states furthermore:

‘Heaven and Earth, rocks and people were alternately bathed in yellow, green, red, blue and violet light. The ‘sun’ stood still for a moment. It then began to emanate these sparkling light and colour circles over again and this time even more brilliantly. It then stopped for a third time and the firework that was beyond imagination, repeated itself.

And the 70,000 people? Beyond comprehension, breathless and as if under a ban, they stared up at the sky. The sun suddenly seemed to detach itself from the firmament and began to fall towards the ground in a zigzag fashion. The throng of people emitted a tremendous cry of anguish: “Milagere! Milagere!” All of them fell to their knees in the muddy conditions. They then sang the Credo.”

Martin had listened very attentively. He was reasonably familiar with this description. He entered the conversation by saying: “As far as I’m aware one ascribes this miracle to Mother Mary. This is the reason why Fatima turned into the greatest place of pilgrimage in the world.” ASHTAR SHERAN nodded his head in agreement and answered:

“We are not opposed to such an interpretation, but the reality looks entirely different. The messenger that was supposed to attract people’s attention to the fact that we were there, had long curly hair. His garment was very grand. The children thought that he was a ravishing beauty. The children were bombarded with such a lot of leading questions whilst being intimidated during their interrogation that a SANTINER turned into a mother of God. By the way: GOD does not have a mother. GOD is not a human being!”

“It therefore was not a religious miracle?” Martin asked.

“No, not in the way it was interpreted on Terra. We do however act under divine INSTRUCTIONS”, replied the commander.

“The occasion of this bodacious miracle brought about the construction of a chapel for ‘Mother Mary’”, said Martin. “One donated a crown for the statue of Mary made from precious gold. This magnificent crown weighs about 1.2 kg and it is adorned with 950 brilliants totalling 76 carats, 1,400 rosettes totalling 20 carats, 313 pearls and also 2,650 precious stones. In my role as a journalist I once showed an interest in the value of this crown and this is why these figures are still fresh in my mind.” ASHTAR SHERAN smiled and said:

“This crown was actually meant for us. But I have to smile when I think that one depicts and derides us as enemies these days. One cannot buy divine sympathies with precious stones, not even the churches can.

The star of Bethlehem was also regarded a divine phenomenon.

But did it arrest the spread of atheism?”

13. The obstinacy of science

“One makes the mistake here on Earth of comparing a computer with a human brain. This leads to the dogma that promotes the idea that physical matter produces thought. Do you also see it like that?” Martin asked.

“That’s right”, replied ASHTAR SHERAN. “A computer however only sorts the recorded data a human being entered into its memory. A computer does not possess imagination and it has no conscience, it only deals with numbers. The computer represents a wonderful agent for man, but this machine does not produce its own thoughts, it is devoid of feelings and a sense of responsibility and it is incapable of detecting its own mistakes. Nothing will change in regards to this for some time. No matter how good a computer might be, the final decision is always left to man.”

Martin sensed ever more clearly that he had turned into a different human being. This thought however didn’t lay comfortably with him. He realised that he had inwardly stepped away from the rest of humanity. He felt very closely connected with the SANTINER.

What did upset Martin the most was the fact that there were scientists on Earth that stubbornly defied the TRUTH. These scientists ruled the world. It wasn't just ruled by powerful politicians, because these always abided by what the sciences had to say. When science says that hydrogen bombs pose no direct threat to planet Earth, politicians willingly give the order to trigger such a devise. –

All of this went through Martin's mind.

He finally turned to the commander and said: "Even though I am witness to an extraterrestrial journey and even though I will publish my experiences and insights, hundreds of scientists will protest against these fact and declare me insane."

"There is absolutely nothing new here", answered ASHTAR SHERAN sedately. "When the first train was built, the sciences also protested against such an undertaking by saying that the mere sight of it would make people swoon. The world is full of such examples; even though most people on Terra are not aware of them.

- Terrestrial science strides from one mistake to another and it often takes centuries before one accepts a TRUTH that the layman realised a long time ago.

Force-fed knowledge does not turn anybody into a genius!

The sciences must one day also acknowledge the TRUTH promoted here. They will not be able to avoid it forever.

- If one is unable to break through science's obstinacy, Terra will go to rack and ruin.

Researchers are absolutely right when they say that a spaceship's journey to a neighbouring solar system would take too long, even if it would travel at the speed of light. This speed limit doesn't really exist, it is only assumed. Light naturally has it limitations, but this doesn't exclude the fact that other speeds can be reached.

- I know that one already deals with so-called tachyons on Terra that are not restricted by the speed of light. But anti-gravity with its LAWS, in connection with physical magnetic forces, eclipses everything."

"Was the physicist Einstein deceived?" Martin asked.

"He was correct in regards to the speed of light, but the speed of light is not something absolute, because considerably higher speeds can be achieved", answered ASHTAR SHERAN.

The conversation was temporarily interrupted. The commander received a communication. ASHTAR SHERAN read the message and the turned to the people he had been talking to:

"I just received the news that the three astronauts landed save and sound on Terra. We are pleased that a risky endeavour has come to a successful conclusion."

Martin felt considerably relieved after receiving this news, but before he was able to direct another question at the commander, he blacked out. The journalist collapsed in his chair and didn't stir again. –

14. Visiting Gods in India

When Martin regained consciousness he softly and bleary eyed heard as gentle voice talking to him. Martin tried to open his eyes, something he found difficult to do. Everything was blurred. Had he dreamt this? – He vaguely saw a hand offering him a beaker:

“Mister Berger! – Are you awake? – Please take this medicine, it will help you.”

Martin gradually recognised MUMTASEE'S beautiful eyes. He took the beaker into his hand and slowly took a sip. “What has happened?” he asked the extraterrestrial.

“Your body had a reaction”, the extraterrestrial answered. “You suffered a collapse of your circulatory system. You nearly fell out of your chair during the conference. But have no fear; we will soon have you up and about again. Our spaceship is already on its way back to Terra. All of this will soon be behind you.”

“You are a beautiful girl. You know that don't you?” asked Martin, who couldn't hide his admiration for this extraterrestrial woman. MUMTASEE didn't answer, she just smiled. Martin sensed that for some inexplicable, unknown reason he loved her. But shouldn't one love every human being without having to have a reason? Why do enemies exist in the first place? The extraterrestrial seemed to have guessed Martin's thoughts:

“It is very easy to make enemies wherever you go, but to acquire a true friend is a lot more difficult.”

Martin nodded his head and slowly got to his feet. The extraterrestrial was right; there was no doubt about it. The SANTINER were not just technologically superior, but also mentally considerably more mature than terrestrial mankind. MUMTASEE also got up and wanted to leave. Martin stopped her by saying: “Please remain a little longer with me here. I would dearly like to talk to you some more.” The harmonious emanations coming from this woman reminded Martin that the SANTINER were always thought of as gods in the past. “Do you believe that people survive after death?” he asked.

“If terrestrial science wasn't so arrogant, they would have already verified that man survives death. This however takes some humility and it is still lacking everywhere”, the extraterrestrial ventured.

“Yes, I also believe that the knowledge about one's survival after death is the all decisive religion”, said Martin.

“There are enough absolute pieces of evidence, not just a few, but millions of them, that confirm the survival of man after death. Even if one suppresses, falsifies and misinterprets such an important TRUTH, the time will come when all of this counts for nothing; because the TRUTH is something that cannot be suppressed for ever. One does not believe in immortality and in a conscious survival after death here on Terra. One says instead: Leave me alone with all this nonsense.”

SHINUN entered to enquire about the wellbeing of his guest. MUMTASEE informed him about it and then said goodbye to Martin Berger who thanked her very cordially for all she had done for him. Martin then turned to SHINUN and asked: Did India have something to do with the SANTINER or have other extraterrestrials been there in the past?" SHINUN made a dismissive gesture and said:

"Other extraterrestrials would have visited Earth long before we did", said SHINUN. "However, ever since we have taken an interest in Terra, no other extraterrestrial visitor has set foot on this planet of redemption. We will now go and find O SEMIO. He is an expert in regards to India. Please come with me!"

SHINUN led his guest along a long corridor. Once they stood in front of O SEMIO'S accommodation, SHINUN announced his and his guest's presence. They entered the room shortly after. O SEMIO still looked very young. His pronounced, arched forehead with its long curls promised great knowledge. O SEMIO offered his guests a seat and SHINUN explained why they were there. The extraterrestrial then turned to Martin and said:

"A few thousand years ago, India was one of our favourite destinations. We often visited India. We therefore had a powerful influence on the Indian population. You have to know Mister Berger, that we particularly like to visit countries and people that have already dealt with religion. These people are easier to guide than atheistic and anti-religious wiseacres. The Himalayan region is at an elevated altitude and this is more favourable for our difficult landings.

The Indian population always regarded us – who came from up high – as gods. When they saw us coming down they assumed that we – I talk about our ancestors – had our divine thrones high up on inaccessible mountain tops that could not be reached by anybody in those days. This is the reason why these people named the Himalayas the 'Thrones of the Gods'."

Martin had listened to this very attentively. Ancient secrets suddenly found an explanation. "Did the extraterrestrial visitors wear spacesuits and helmets?" Martin asked. O SEMIO smiled benevolently and answered:

Certainly, they wore green spacesuits, similar to today's suits. They also wore a helmet on their head. They later waived wearing a protective mask. The face was only protected by a helmet, similar to a diving bell, when they started their visits here. The atmosphere at 5,000m above sea level and beyond is very conducive to our breathing. Our forefathers eventually came up with a very practical invention. They constructed a small nose filter that fits inside one's nostril. This device was completely adequate for a stay of many hours."

"Very interesting", said Martin, "I now understand what the so-called 'high altitude cult' is all about".

"Yes, absolutely", said O SEMIO. ""The higher the mountain ranges, the better they are for us to land upon. This is the reason why we particularly preferred higher mountains, for instance the Andes in Peru, the mountain range of Sinai and the Rocky Mountains of North America. We feel most comfortable in clean, thin air, because it is similar to the atmosphere on our home planet.”

“It seems to me that regular extraterrestrial air traffic was common place on Earth many thousands of years ago”, said Martin.

“Yes, that’s correct. One can put it like that”, emphasised O SEMIO. “We have always endeavoured to help our brothers and sisters on Terra.”

“One does however regard everything extraterrestrial a potential enemy on Earth”, Martin replied quite frustrated.

“Yes, we know that”, said O SEMIO. “But whose enemy are we actually? We can only be dealing with a clique here that looks upon us as their enemy. The nations are not our enemies. We can’t remember to ever have behaved like enemies. The reality is that we are some kind of ‘space police’. How can we be enemies? Is the police not there to help?”

“Nations can be taught to believe in an imaginary enmity until they actually believe that enemies do exist. I definitely know that nations on Earth fight one another without actually knowing more about each another”, the journalist said.

“It’s even worse”, said O SEMIO. “The people on Terra also fight one another because they belong to a different race or nation. For instance the two Germany: They were in agreement to begin with, but then became fierce enemies. They constructed a border the like the world had never seen before. All of this was due to incongruous influences.”

“Why is it that so many Gods are revered in India?” Martin asked. “I would have thought that these people would have received a healthy dose of religion from extraterrestrials?”

“This has something to do with a technical lack of understanding”, explained O SEMIO. Without exception, the people in Earth have never been capable of understanding the technology of our space flight capabilities. This is why one continuously came to the wrong conclusions.

- Whatever could not be made to harmonise with the experiences and laws of physical matter was interpreted as something religious.

We advocate a UNIVERSAL FAITH, but we are not Gods! I am absolutely convinced that there are no Gods, but only a CREATOR we call the GREAT PLANNER. The denotation of ‘Gods’ is only applied on Terra. Our vocabulary does not contain this concept.”

Martin contemplated this for a moment before he said: “One must surely have regarded these extraterrestrials as Gods, because due to their behaviourism one endowed them with supernatural powers. They were superior to man on Earth and this is why one didn’t doubt that these Gods, who came down from the heavens, could influence the fate of man.”

O SEMIO nodded his head in acknowledgement. “Yes, that’s it. You are right. But we are no longer Gods in people’s eyes these days, on the contrary – namely dangerous super humans that can’t be trusted.”

“Did the Indians learn from the visitors from space?” Martin wanted to know.

“Oh yes. We have always had an influence on cultures. But it wasn’t our intension to promote a cult the way it developed on Terra”, said O SEMIO. “We gave the Indians a lot of secrets of magic and we instructed them in the art of thought transference. The Lamas in Tibet managed to preserve many of the secrets from that time.”

“Why did they discontinue these successful connections with the people on Earth?” Martin continued with his questions. O SEMIO ran his hand through his long, wavy hair and slowly answered:

“Well, this is the problem. Once we saw how the priests turned this into an unnatural, fanatical cult, we withdrew from the scene. The frequency of contacts was reduced. There are still a number of yogis in India these days that use our magic doctrines.”

“What is magic?” Martin wanted to know.

- Magic is the practical application of the laws of nature that are not directly related to physical matter, but that correspond with physical matter.

These ENERGIES should not be underestimated! Gravity is also part of this, because it can be influenced through magic. Levitation is one example. Levitation is something that is common place to us. Levitation is also represented within the belief in Gods. To add to this is the fact that we wear a belt that emits fiery rays and they immerse us in a bright light”, SHINUN added. “All of this was something mystical and incomprehensible for the people on Earth. In order to clearly emphasise this once again:

- We are not Gods, but we are the executioners of the divine WILL!”

Martin gulped, but said nothing. O SEMIO resumed the conversation after a pause and said:

“India played a major role. We tried to instruct these very religiously minded people at that time. We were however confronted by a fanatical primitiveness. We were eventually successful in spreading the very crucial doctrine of an invisible INTELLIGENCE. To also study the invisible is very important. The lamas in Tibet understood us relatively well, but their concepts in regards to Gods were so influential that they were never able to extricate themselves from it.”

“Major insights are not just destined for individual people, also not for an individual nation. Major insights belong to all of mankind!” the journalist said thereby surprising himself with his own words.

“That’s the way it is”, answered O SEMIO. “What is meant here is that we’re dealing with a humanity that is at home throughout the universe. We SANTINER possess great insights and they are destined for all people throughout the universe. This is why we try everything we can to spread these insights from solar system to solar system.”

“What kind of insights?” Martin asked. O SEMIO gave Martin a steady gaze and spoke:

- Firstly, that a conscious, sentient GREAT PLANNER exists who controls and guides the universe.
- Secondly, that man is related to this GREAT PLANNER and that man could be his partner.
- Thirdly, that spiritual man is immortal.
- Fourthly, that the whole universe is at the disposal of man throughout his many incarnations.
- Fifthly, that during his constant development, man must avoid everything negative and promote everything positive.

We had great influence on the religions on Terra. The Buddhist's faith aligned itself to a considerable degree with our doctrines. One assumed that what the 'Gods' said was correct. But the Indians unfortunately misunderstood us. They assumed that they had to battle suffering even if it could be eliminated auto-suggestively. We however meant something completely different. Our doctrine says that man must fight suffering by not causing any unnecessary suffering. Man must show more understanding for the suffering of other people. But when man fights his own suffering, he will atrophy. This is not in our interest. It isn't just about man's physical suffering; it is also about man's mental, that is to say, spiritual suffering. These sensations are a lot more painful!”

“Did your forefathers teach nations that man can return in the form of a mosquito, a monkey or a cow in his next embodiment?” asked Martin.

“No, absolutely not”, said O SEMIO. “Human beings have never ever experienced such embodiments and they never will either. The human soul rates higher than the soul of animals. The world of animals serves the development of man's physical body, but only to a degree where we're not dealing with a human being. This development runs parallel to the development on other, viable planets.

- A human soul only reincarnates when the physical body has developed to a degree where it is capable of accommodating a human soul. How could a mosquito, a monkey or a cow ever accommodate a human soul? This is blasphemy!”

SHINUN turned to O SEMIO and said:

“We have to go and see our commander again. ASHTAR SHERAN wants to talk to our guest before he leaves us.”

They rose from their seats.

Martin thanked O SEMIO for their interesting conversation that had enriched his knowledge once again. O SEMIO politely saluted him and in parting said:

“Please don’t forget Mister Berger that the greatest battle mankind is faced with is the battle against errors and ignorance. These represent the greatest enemies of progress, enlightenment and peace. –

May GOD be with you!”

15. We are dealing with the future of our Earth

SHINUN and Martin once again entered the commander’s cabin. His stay on board had settled Martin down and he already regarded ASHTAR SHERAN a close friend.

“I would like to ask you a few parting questions if I may Mister Berger”, the commander began the conversation. “Due to the fact that man’s grand consciousness is akin to a computer, the correct programming is required. We made an attempt to reprogram you Mister Berger. Such a reprogramming is not easy, because false data has to be erased first. I do believe that your whole way of thinking now works according to different criteria and I would like to ascertain that this is so.”

“I certainly do possess different yardsticks in regards to making decisions now; that is true. My ability of logical thought on the other hand has not changed”, answered Martin.

“Well, we will see. We are dealing with the survival of Terra” the commander said earnestly.

Martin was deeply troubled by this statement, because he was all too well aware just how dire the situation on Earth really was. Giving his terrestrial guest a penetrating look, ASHTAR SHERAN said:

“I could direct this question at our ‘calculator of consequences’, but because I assume that you have learned a lot on board from us, I put this question to you, Mister Berger: In your opinion, what would be terrestrial mankind’s next step to create the prerequisites for world peace?”

Martin’s thoughts reacted immediately. The answer entered his consciousness in a flash and it only had to be formulated. “All religions on Earth must be immediately brought to a “common denominator”, the journalist stated. “It is absolutely imperative that all religions, without regard to existing dogmas and confessions, take a closer look at reincarnation and adopted it and avow to it as an important component of their faith.” – The commander nodded his head in agreement and said:

“Absolutely correct Mister Berger! Our ‘calculator of consequences’ could not have formulated this any better. To another question: Ought the terrestrial sciences enjoy the freedom to undertake any experiment that could enrich their knowledge?”

Martin didn’t contemplate this for too long either, but answered very promptly: “No! Freedom in regards to research may not degenerate into blasphemy. The abuse of Mother Nature or human beings is a blasphemy and very dangerous, because the consequences cannot be foreseen. However if the consequences are known and if they are negative or pursue negative intentions, we are dealing with a crime against humanity if such experiments are carried out in spite of it.”

“You are also right in this respect”, said the commander.

“May I also ask a question?” asked Martin.

“Yes, of course, ask away”, the commander replied.

“The western nations place great importance in democracy. This is the reason why one believes that children must be brought up free from duress. The catch word is: Anti-authoritarian education. Can you tell me something about this?”

“I do not believe that people living on a planet of redemption, here for the purpose of atonement and development, can progress through the application of anti-authoritarian measures”, said the WORLD TEACHER. “One thing is certain, authority must be there and applied, but it must be just and rigorous. An authority that determines the fate of a lot of people must above everything else be a good role model! Every educator must also behave exemplary, if he wants to claim the right of authority. Those that do not take care of themselves and are weak willed cannot assert a claim for authority.

I also include those that cannot leave smoking or alcohol alone, those that scream their heads off in order to prevail and those that possess other negative characteristics. They do not have the right to indoctrinate other people; they must deign to work on themselves instead. Nations will always recognise great and positive role models. If they are however not archetypes, they will be deemed to be mankind’s enemies; this happens quite automatically on a subconscious level.”

“I absolutely agree with your opinion”, Martin replied impressed.

“Are you of the opinion, Mister Berger, that terrestrial scientists are aware that major earthquake catastrophes are the result of nuclear experiments?” ASHTAR SHERAN continued with his questions.

“I don’t believe that most scientists take such warnings serious”, said Martin. “Scientists and politicians and particularly the military are not interested in the consequences, they are only interested in the success of their calculations. That this is the case has been verified over again. These types of experiments can trigger catastrophes at great distances from a nuclear test site.”

The commander got to his feet and said:

“I thank you for this conversation, Mister Berger.”

“It is really my place to thank you for everything”, said Martin. “PEACE ACROSS ALL FRONTIERS!”

“PEACE ACROSS ALL FRONTIERS!” replied the extraterrestrial commander.

After these words were spoken, Martin and SHINUN left the commander’s cabin. On the way to Martin’s cabin SHINUN said to his terrestrial guest:

“We will soon have to say good-bye, Mister Berger. According to terrestrial time, you will be back on Terra the day after tomorrow. Go to sleep and have a good rest.”

16. Valediction

SHINUN lead Martin down a long corridor to the hangars.

“I will personally take you back to Terra, Mister Berger. Whilst in the discus you will receive a hypnotic suggestion so that you will remember all you experienced clearly.”

Whilst they were still talking to one another, MUMTASEE approached them. Martin spontaneously offered her his hand in order to say good-bye. She however greeted him by placing the back of her hand on her forehead. Martin nonplussed withdrew his hand and with a faint hurt in his soul took his leave with the words: “Good-bye and think of me once in a while! Your thoughts might reach me, if you use a telepathy amplifier. I will endeavour to concentrate on them.” MUMTASEE smiled and answered by saying a few words in her own language:

“SUL INAT IS NIT OTHEN!”

Whereupon she turned away and continued on her way. Irritated, Martin looked at SHINUN who smiled and said:

“Translated, this sentence means: ‘PEACE ACROSS ALL FRONTIERS!’”

Martin gazed after the extraterrestrial for a while, before they then entered the hangar. This is where the terrestrial guest received his cloths and also his private possessions back. The discus, ready for take-off, already glowed like a giant opal. This sight was incredible! The thought ‘a perfect vehicle for august Gods’ suddenly entered Martin’s head. SHINUN placed his hand on Martin’s shoulder:

“We have to part my friend. I will take you to the room with the opening in the floor. I will fly the discus to New Mexico myself. According to terrestrial time, it is 10am there. You can therefore already have your midday lunch on Earth. But once you’re back, please remember that we are dealing with the future of planet Earth here! You have no idea of the enormous powers already in the hands of terrestrial man. But because most of the people with that kind of responsibility are ungodly and also do not believe in the survival of the soul, the danger is so great that one cannot take it serious enough. We SANTINER continue to fly around your home planet. You can always count on that.”

“Why can the mother-ships not be seen from Earth?” asked Martin.

“Firstly, the speed of a mother-shop is so great that it evades any optical observation”, explained SHINUN. “Secondly, an electronic radar signal cannot always detect it, because the magnetic force field that surrounds the mother-ship can deflect the incoming radar impulses so that they are not reflected.”

“I am truly grateful to all of you and I will always hold you dear in my heart”, Martin said affected by emotions. He would have dearly loved to stay on board and abandoned any thought of returning to Earth altogether. He was however aware of his ASSIGNMENT and he valiantly fought the emotions welling up inside him. “I have never had so many friends. Good-bye my dear friend SHINUN and please don’t forget poor Mother Earth”, said Martin with tears in his eyes. “Please come and help us, because we’re dealing with the future of the Earth. Millions of people place their hope in you. We need divine HELP! Please don’t abandon mankind on Earth.”

“Please don’t forget my friend that the countdown for Terra continues unless it is stopped through change”, said SHINUN. “We will return. – PEACE ACROSS ALL FRONTIERS!”
